Company C was a portion of the Twenty-first U. S. infantry which served at the time of the Boxer uprising, which there performed valuable service. Later the troops were transferred to Samar and engaged in provost duty in that city. During the past year a battalion of the Ninth was stationed in Samar. All the officers connected with Company C, which was wiped out by the insurgents, were killed in General Chaffee's dispatch, there being no second Heutenant with the company. Thomas Jones, who commanded the company, was appointed from the military academy at West Point in September, 1900. Lieutenant Bumpus was appointed to the army from Massachusetts, serving as a private in the First Massachusetts heavy artillery. Surgeon Griswold is a recent addition to the army, having crossed the Pacific ocean with Adjutant General Corbin on his recent trip to the Philippines.

During his trip General Corbin visited the island of Samar. It was just seven weeks ago tonight, he remarked, when discussing the news of the disaster to Company C, that he was talking with General Hughes at Iloilo about the condition of affairs in the islands. The point where Company C was surprised, he said, was a considerable distance from General Hughes' headquarters. He was not surprised at the attack on the troops in Samar as that was one of the islands considered particularly troublesome. The natives along the coast are friendly, but many of those in the interior are regarded as dangerous guerrillas.

DEPLORABLE INCIDENT

By Associated Press.

Milwaukee, Sept. 29.. When his attention was called to the dispatch announcing the disaster, that had overtaken Company C of the Ninth infantry, General MacArthur said:

"This is one of those deplorable, isolated incidents which will have no effect on the general result. It is a portion of the insurrection which has been conducted by General Lukban who has never been suppressed. There are plenty of soldiers there to ultimately subdue the rebellion in the island of Samar."

GEN. OTIS' VIEW

By Associated Press.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—General E. S. Otis, in command of the Department of the Lakes, said tonight that the slaughter of the members of Company C of the Ninth infantry in Samar did not mean that there is anything like widespread revolt in that province. Concerning the disaster General Otis said: "Samar is in the department of Visaya, over which Brigadier General Hughes has command. This department includes all the central islands of the Philippine archipelago. During the last month our soldiers have been active in an attempt to subdue rebellion, which is confined to the boundaries of that island. The insurgent leader, Lukban, heads the natives and he and his Tagals followers have been instrumental in keeping alive the spirit of opposition to this government's authority.

"The location of the ambuscade is in southern Samar, of which the inhabitants are ignorant and barbarous. Probably Lukban got a party of bolomen together and surprised the American soldiers while at breakfast. I think Lukban knows something about the attack, at any rate. There has been trouble in that section for two years and the character of the country, and the barbarity of the natives, combine to make its suppression difficult."

BOER LEADERS ARE TO BE BANISHED

By Associated Press.

Pretoria, Sept. 29.—A pamphlet has been published here under Lord Kitchener's authority containing notice of the permanent banishment of several Boer leaders captured since September 15, and also a long letter from Lord Kitchener replying to a communication from Acting President Schalkberger, received Sept. 5. Lord Kitchener promises to send the Schalkberger letter to the imperial government, which he says reciprocates the Boer statesman's desire for peace.

Lord Kitchener then proceeds to explain that the responsibility for the war rests with the burghers, "whose invasion of unprotected British territory opened the saddest page in South African history." He quotes a letter from a member of Volksraad to a member of the Cape Colony assembly declaring that the time is ripe to drive the English from South Africa."

In conclusion Lord Kitchener declares that having annexed the two republics to Great Britain he cannot break faith with the people who have shown loyalty to the new regime and so far as clemency to Cape rebels is concerned, this is the prerogative of the ruler which must be exercised with unfettered discretion.

A proclamation has been issued providing for the sale of properties of burghers still in the field in accordance with the terms of Lord Kitchener's previous proclamation.

BLODT COMMITTED SUICIDE.

By Associated Press.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 29.—Jacob A. Blodt, secretary of the Guarantee Savings & Loan company until its failure a few weeks ago, committed suicide at a cheap boarding house here today by asphyxiation. After the failure of his company he was arrested on the charge of embezzlement. For twenty years Mr. Blodt had been identified with prominent business interests in Cleveland and until recently he was held in confidence by the most conservative. He became despondent and professed to believe that he was the victim of malicious and unrelenting persecution, and that he had been ruined through the efforts of his enemies. Mr. Blodt leaves a widow and three children.

WHEN THE WAR IS OVER.

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 30.— The Daily Express says it understands that when the war in South Africa is over King Edward and Queen Alexandra intend to visit the colonies in India and that while in India his majesty will be crowned emperor of India.

ATTACK ON GUARD AT M'KINLEY VAULT

Prowlers Challenged by Guard Who Fired at One and Was Attacked by Another With a Knife.

By Associated Press.

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 29.—A strange story comes from West Lawn cemetery tonight where a company of regulars from Fort Wayne, Mich., are guarding the vault in which the body of the late President McKinley lies. It is to the effect that the guard on duty on top of the vault fired a shot at one man who refused to heed his challenge, that the shot was diverted by another man who appeared from another direction and that an effort was made to stab the guard. Strict regulations prevent either the officers or men of the post from being quoted on any matter connected with their service and for this reason Captain Biddle, who is in command, was obliged to decline to be quoted at the camp tonight. He will make a full report to his superiors at once. Reliable authorities made the following statement:

Private Depreud was on guard duty on top of the vault at a point commanding the entrance below and the man approached from the rear. Shortly before 7:30 o'clock he saw what he took to be the face of a man peering from behind a tree about 40 feet from his post. He watched it for 20 minutes, he says, and at 7:45 saw the man hurry to a tree 10 feet nearer. He challenged the man to halt but this was not heeded and the fellow approached nearer. Depreud leveled his gun and aimed to shoot for effect but just at that instant another man who came towards him from the opposite side caught the gun, threw it up and the bullet was spent in the air. This same man struck Depreud on the right side of the abdomen with a knife or other sharp weapon, cutting an "L" shaped gash in his overcoat an inch and a half long each way and a smaller one in his blouse. The flesh was not broken but was bruised under the cuts in the clothing. Depreud in the struggle fell and rolled down the side of the vault. Lieut. Ashbridge, officer of the day, was in front of the vault and rushed to the top on hearing the shot but the men made good their escape. All members of the company on hearing the shot hurried to the vault and besides searching the cemetery the guard was increased.

Depreud is a recruit enlisted in New York about four months ago. He is said to be an excellent soldier and to have a fine record with his officers. He says the man who attacked him was masked but that the first one he saw was not masked. He says the latter carried a white package in his right hand and something that glittered in his left.

Since the incident stories have been told in camp of some incendiary conversations overheard in the crowds that have visited the cemetery including one today alleging that some stranger said:

"Lots of people would like to see this whole thing blown up."

There are 70 soldiers at the cemetery, 24 of whom are constantly on guard duty about the vault and camp.

PITCHED BATTLE BETWEEN STRIKERS AND POLICEMEN

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—A pitched battle between strikers and special policemen occurred shortly after 1 o'clock this morning on Kearney street between Post and Geary. Seven men are positively known to have been wounded, one probably fatally, and it is thought that several others who escaped arrest were wounded. Not less than 50 shots were fired. Several of the injured were innocent passers by. A number of plate glass windows were broken by flying bullets. Four special policeman and a recently discharged naval man were made the target for a combined assault by a mob of strikers and sympathizers numbering, according to the declarations of the special policemen, at least 200.

William Miller, striking teamster, shot in the left breast, will probably die; H. F. Behler, special officer, shot in the left leg; G. Wisel, druggist, shot in the knee; Eddie Fuller, messenger boy, shot in the leg; J. Boyne, lacerated scalp, inflicted with the butt end of a revolver; MacDonald, shot in left hand; Peter Johnson, a box maker, shot in the leg.

The party of special policemen were on their way home from a variety theater. When they turned into Market street from Turk they noticed a large crowd following them and they asked Policeman John Tillman to accompany them. Just as they reached Kearney street a shot was fired. It was followed in quick succession by several others. A regular fusillade ensued. The mob scattered in all directions but not before a number of policemen arrived and succeeded in arresting about 30 of them. Four were identified as striking teamsters. They were heavily armed.

While Officer Tillman was attempting to protect the specials when the first shots were fired, one of the mob fired at him at short range. The ball just grazed Tillman's ear. J. Boyne, who was among the injured, is a non-union carpenter. Application was made to a number of hackmen to carry him away, but they refused to do so because he was not a union man. Behler was formerly a member of Company E, of the Fourth United States volunteers. His home is in Elkhart, Ind.

DENVER IN READINESS FOR GREAT FESTIVAL

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Sept. 29.—Today the finishing touches were put on the grand stand, and tonight Denver is ready to welcome her guests to the largest carnival in her history.

All last night and today those in charge toiled that the coming of tomorrow would leave nothing undone and that the beauty of the opening day would not be marred by the sight of uncompleted work. The first of the visitors to begin to arrive in earnest came with the morning trains from over the state. The Denver & Rio Grande which arrived from Alamosa at 7:20 this morning brought in 10 well-filled coaches, and each succeeding train carried a large number of visitors.

One of the commendable things which can be said of this year's festival is that the city's guests will have no reason to criticise for want of attention. Every effort possible has been made with a view of entertaining the outside people.

Not only is this true of the festival arrangements but of the arrangements for the Slavs ball also. On that evening the queen of the festival and her maids of honor, representing the different counties of the state, will be given a prominent position during the crowning of the queen, and will during the ball be especially entertained by the Slavs. The carnival will open tomorrow evening when the queen will be crowned, and from then until Friday morning at 12:30 the city will be in the hands of the pleasure makers.

Tonight the streets are filled with visitors and the carnival committee are jubilant over the week's prospects. One of the most beautiful ceremonies for the entire week was arranged today. It will immediately follow the coronation of the carnival queen tomorrow evening, and will be the presentation of a $250 diamond ring to some one of the many maids of honor. The ring is donated by A. T. Lewis & Sons and the maid to receive this will be chosen by lot. The maids of honor will surround the queen during the coronation ceremony and at its close each will draw an envelope containing a number from a box. The queen will then draw from another box containing similar numbers in duplicate, and the maid whose number corresponds with the one drawn by the queen will step forward and, kneeling before the throne, have the ring slipped on her finger.

As an example of the popularity of the carnival, Dr. Ledbetter, presiding elder of the Denver district of the Colorado conference of Southern Methodists, who is at present supplying the pulpit of Dr. Edmondson, of St. Paul's M. E. church South, tonight prefaced his sermon with the following words: "I am of the opinion that it will be useless to attempt to hold a prayer meeting in this church next Wednesday night. I do not want you to think that I am backsliding, but I realize that I am getting too old to attempt to buck up against a circus as great as the carnival. I have a faint memory of trying to do that thing in this church one time and I realized that I was the only one of the flock that didn't get to see the show. If you will devote as much time as you should in prayer in your homes this week, you will not really need the assistance of the one night's prayer service. During the week I trust you will keep yourselves straight and do nothing to land you in the cooler and cause the police ambulance to make a run in your behalf. What I want you to do is to enjoy the beauties and successes of the carnival in such a way as will educate you in the advancement of our state, show you the possibilities of our people, and that you will receive by example something that will do your soul good."

MRS. M'KINLEY'S HEALTH.

By Associated Press.

Canton, O., Sept. 29.—Mrs. McKinley had a fair day today. It was said at the McKinley home tonight that there had been no material change in her condition and that she continues to bear up remarkably well.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 29.—The Church of England congress meets Tuesday at the Marine residence of George IV. at Brighton, the scene of his revelries. The London Times, commenting on the strange reversals of times, says:

"Few contrasts could be stranger than that between the fitful company of toadies and debauchees who danced and drank with their royal patron and the serious, businesslike, work-a-day, decorous people who will throng the monument to faded splendor."

WHAT KITCHENER WANTS

London, Sept. 30.—The Daily Express publishes a report that Lord Kitchener has asked for 25,000 more seasoned mounted men and for power to hang rebels, traitors and murderers without reference to the home government.

INTERESTING RACES AT VAILSBURG

By Associated Press.

New York, Sept. 29.—At Vailsburg, N. J. today the match between Jimmy Michael and Floyd McFarland of San Jose, Cal. was won by Michael. The two met in five mile heats paced by motor tandems. In the first heat the men kept close together, not over 30 yards separating them until one of the tires of McFarland's wheel flattened and Michael went on and won in 7:42 3-5. Michael was said to have ridden the last mile in 1:25¾, which is the fastest mile ever made in a competition of this sort.

In the second heat McFarland again had trouble with a tire and switched behind Champion's single motor. Michael won easily in 7:59 4-5. Champion's ride against the world's record on a motor bicycle was one of the most thrilling spectacles ever seen on the track. While the track is not banked for speed of this sort the Frenchman let the machine fairly fly around the corners. He covered the mile in 1:15 flat beating the record made by G. R. Butler at Buffalo recently by 7 1-5 seconds.

Two mile professional handicap: W. S. Fenn, Waterbury, won; O. S. Kimble, Louisville, second; H. B. Freeman, Portland, third. Time 4:13 2-5.

Five mile professional, open: John Fisher, Chicago, won; Frank Kramer, East Orange, second; James B. Bowler, Chicago, third. Time 11:03.

J. J. HILL INSPECTS NEW RAILROAD ROUTE

By Associated Press.

New Whatcomb, Wash., Sept. 29.—It has developed here that the purpose of the last visit of President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern railway to the Pacific coast was to personally inspect a route for this second line of railway across the Cascade mountains in this state. It is said that Mr. Hill made the trip on muleback from the headwaters of Lake Chelan country to Bridge creek in the Cascade mountains. On the eastern side of the mountains the Great Northern is extending the system westward from Marcus to Midway. On the western side their line was taken 40 miles eastward from Hamilton to Rockport. Between Rockport, the present terminus of the line on the western side of the mountains, and Midway, where contracts are said to have already been let for the construction on the eastern side, is a distance of 150 miles. It was to look over the intervening gap in which lies Skagit pass that Mr. Hill made his last trip.

PRESIDENT AT CHURCH

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 29.—President Roosevelt attended divine service today at the Grace Reformed church, accompanied by his daughter, Ethel, and his son, Kermit. The little building was even more crowded than a week ago. Chairs were placed in the aisles and about the end of the room and several availed themselves of seats in the window sills. The president and his children walked from the White house to the church and arrived after the building was filled. He took his seat in the second row without ceremony or ostentation. At the close of the services the congregation remained standing while the president passed out.

JUAN CARDONA ARRESTED.

By Associated Press.

Manila, Sept. 29.—Juan Cardona, who until recently was president of Genona province of Tarlac, and who was appointed secretary of the Tarlac provincial government, has been arrested on the charge of accusing people of crimes for the purpose of extorting money from them. More than 50 persons assert that they have been robbed by him in this way, some declaring they have even surrendered title deeds of property. Cardona has been considered one of the most reliable natives holding pro-American views. An examination of his record, however, shows that for several years he was a bandit and that he served two terms of imprisonment.

LONDON SOCIETY.

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 29.—London's autumn season is in full swing. The most prominent society people may be seen in London daily. The fashionable restaurants are crowded and several of the West End theaters are doing splendid business. Among the best are those in which Americans are directly interested. In regard to "Iris," Pinero's new piece, the play is pronounced to be a perfect piece of workmanship and one which will supply an inexhaustible subject for argument. Most of the critics, however, pay Fay Davis the compliment of saying she is unable to portray the character of the lovely, luxurious and immoral heroine to the life. The American season, as this period is called in London, is drawing to an end. The steamers sailing for America today and next week are filled to their capacity. The express train taking the passengers of the American line steamer St. Paul to Southampton today was unusually crowded.

CONFESSED FORGER.

By Associated Press.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 29.—H. G. Westall of Asheville, N. C., was arrested here today on the charge of having used the United States mails for carrying checks and drafts with the intention to defraud. Westall belongs to a prominent Asheville family and has a brother who is superintendent of the money order office at Havana, Cuba. He confessed and said that he had forged between 60 and 70 checks in his lifetime. He said that he had been in an insane asylum.

FOR RELEASE OF MISS STONE.

By Associated Press.

Constantinople, Sept. 30.—C. M. Dickinson, United States consul general in Constantinople has made representations to the Bulgarian government with a view of securing the release of Miss Helen Stone and her companion who were captured by brigands September 3, near Djumabala.

It is reported that a number of the members of the Bulgarian-Macedonian revolutionary company have been arrested on evidence implicating them in the abduction.

MOROCCO WILL SETTLE.

By Associated Press.

Tangiers, Sept. 29.—Saavadra, the dragoman of the Spanish legation, has arrived at Marakesh and has been received in audience by the sultan of Morocco, who promised that all the Spanish claims should be satisfied. The Sherifian government declares that the Spanish boy and girl who were recently abducted by the Moors are still alive.

YACHTSMEN ARE ANXIOUS

TUESDAY'S TRIANGULAR RACE

Is Looked Forward to as a Test of Ships and Skippers---Lipton's Confidence.

By Associated Press.

New York, Sept. 29. An anxious but determined lot of yachtmen gathered at the New York Yacht club tonight for another talk over yesterday's exciting race, the chances of the Columbia in her next contest with the Shamrock II of Tuesday, but above all that dreaded question of the prospects of the famous cup at last returning whence it came after being in American hands a brief month over half a century.

The anxious members seemed to be in the majority although the grim air of determination not to give up the cup was quite prevalent. Every member frankly admitted that he had experienced something like a scare and no one wanted to have the Columbia win another race by so close a margin. The bulletin board on which was tacked the committee's brief summary of yesterday's race was the chief attraction at the club and before it all the evening was a group of more or less expert amateur skippers, debating the question of what the Columbia would be able to accomplish in the triangular race on Tuesday. Everyone hopes for the best and many recalled that during the preliminary racing with the Constitution and Independence the Morgan boat had shown much speed when sailing with started sheets.

In the race on Tuesday, if the wind holds true, two legs of the triangle will be sailed under these conditions. One of the legs, probably the first, will be of 10 miles to windward and the next will be a broad reach under the large jib topsails or balloon jibs, while the third leg will be a close fetch to the finish line. On these two reaches all the racers have shown great speed, and the Columbia frequently made each of the 10 miles of the triangular races in something under three-quarters of an hour. It is said that the Shamrock II has shown a good 14-knot gait in a reach, which is a trifle better than the Columbia has done, but such timing cannot be considered absolutely reliable. At any rate, with a good breeze the race on Tuesday should be a fast one.

Much will depend on the position of the boats at the start but at the Yacht club tonight there seemed to be the utmost confidence in Captain Barr of the Columbia, despite the fact that he was outgeneraled yesterday by the skipper of the Shamrock II. With the Columbia holding the weather position at the start, it seemed to be the general opinion that she would keep it to the first turn. But here came the question of the American boat's ability to hold the Irishman in the next two legs. With her long lines there were many who seemed to think that the challenger might outfoot the defender, and that Captain Barr's only resource would be in a hot luffing match.

That there will be an attempt by one or the other skipper to luff out to windward in the two reaching legs on Tuesday's race seems almost certain, provided, of course, the yachts are any ways close at the first mark or end of the beat to windward. Captain Barr has been singularly successful all season in his luffing matches, with the exception of that with the Constitution in the run from New Haven to New London during the celebrated cruise last month.

He certainly won the last race with the Constitution by sharp sailing and there were several other occasions where he obtained a decided advantage by such tactics, which, it may be said, are perfectly fair and honorable. It is on this that the members of the New York Yacht club are relying to win Tuesday's race, the ability of Captain Barr to berth his boat to windward at the start, his skillfulness in holding her there to the windward mark, the speed of the Columbia on a reach, and finally, if lacking slightly in these, speed.

If Captain Barr can win Tuesday's race the clubmen will heave a long sigh of relief, but until that triangular course contest is decided in favor of the Columbia the cup will be considered, if not in actual danger of returning, at least as rocking in its glass case in its depository.

The owners, captains and crews of the racers spent a quiet day at Sandy Hook today. Captain Barr visited some friends on shore but Captain Sycamore remained on board the Puerto Rico, the Shamrock's tender, all day.

Soon after noon the revenue cutter Gresham anchored in the bay just ahead of the Erin. As soon as she arrived, Sir Thomas Lipton made up a party including George L. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Jameson, the duke of Alba, Dr. Mackay, Commodore Hilliard and Robert Urc, and boarded the cutter in his steam launch. His purpose was not to find fault with Captain Walker of the Gresham for running down the Erin during Saturday's race, but rather to assure him that the damage was trifling and at the same time repay a social call which the captain and Mrs. Walker had paid him recently. Sir Thomas and his party were shown all over the Gresham and Mrs. Jameson was entertained by Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Hall and Miss Hall. After leaving the Gresham, Sir Thomas' party, at the invitation of Mr. Butler Ames, owner of the schooner yacht America, the famous cup winner of 50 years ago, went on board that schooner and took a sail down the bay.

Later Sir Thomas said:

"Captain Walker of the Gresham and I are old friends, and the fact that his boat ran into mine accidentally will not mar the friendship for a moment. The damage is not so very serious. It will necessitate docking the ship, of course, but that can be done before the races. As long as no one was hurt, I heard the yacht I shall not grumble at all, because it might have been so much worse, you know."

When asked if he wished to say anything concerning the alleged story that his captains had sold him out last year, Sir Thomas said:

"That is an old story which I decline some time ago. I really do not care to say anything more about it just now."

Of Saturday's race he declared he had nothing to say except to repeat that with a good strong breeze the Shamrock would do better than she did on Saturday.

From the outside, the dent in the port quarter of the Erin, where the Gresham struck her shows a deep depression in the sheer strake plate just abaft the gangway ladder. The after end of the plate is pushed in and some of the rivets are sheared. The wooden wearing piece or molding at the waterways is splintered but a little paint will cover up the damage temporarily. At the same time considerable damage has been done inside, the end of a beam having buckled and to repair this and the plate will require several weeks in drydock, so said a naval architect today, and the expenditure of quite a sum of money.

Mrs. William G. Jameson, who was reported seriously hurt by being thrown down when the vessels came together, was looking as bright and cheerful as ever today.

"I am not on crutches, you see," said she, laughing, "although I was hurt a little."

LONDON COMMENT ON THE COLUMBIA-SHAMROCK

By Associated Press.

London, Sept. 30. Today's papers are unanimous in their praise of the splendid handling of the Columbia and the Shamrock II Saturday in what all describe as a magnificent race. The outcome has greatly raised the hopes of British yachtsmen generally. The yachts are seen to be so evenly matched that the result cannot be predicted with any confidence, but it is considered that the triangular course will prove more favorable for the challenger and that therefore Sir Thomas still has a chance to lift the cup.

"The race throughout could not have been contested more keenly," says the Daily Mail, "or in a more sportsmanlike manner."

The Daily Graphic points to the significant fact that at no period in the race was the challenger leading by the amount of her handicap and it expresses the opinion that unless the Shamrock II shows a sudden improvement in speed or gets a large slice of luck she will hardly win the cup.

This latter opinion is the least hopeful among those voiced by the morning press.

The Standard, which declines to attach importance to the talk of unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of Captain Barr, which it suggests could doubtless be traced to idle gossip, adds:

"We are quite sure the yachtsmen of New York would much rather lose than owe a seeming victory to sharp practice."

"It would be a thousand pities," says the Daily Chronicle, "if the struggle should arouse any acrimonious disputes of this nature. If everything done by Captain Barr is in exact accordance with American rules we presume these rules cannot be questioned; but we hope nobody will deem it necessary to raise any question."

The Times says:

"The equality of the Shamrock II or possibly even her slight superiority in windward work will not be a compensation for the Columbia's decided superiority in a dead run before the wind in light airs. Therefore if the weather does not change, there is little likelihood that the challenger will win the cup, apart from the fresh chance which the triangular course will give her. The best hopes lie in a decided freshening of the breeze."

NEWS NOTES FROM DENVER

Republican County Conventions Were Harmonious—Assessment Rolls Nearly Ready.

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Denver, Sept. 29.—Republicans held county conventions in many of the counties yesterday and the reports which are being received indicate that Republican prospects were never brighter. In every case harmony prevailed and there was a noticeable absence of nominees who do not represent the best element of their respective communities.

Since the supreme court granted Attorney General Post the writ of prohibition against Judge Dixon Secretary Gray has been at work completing the assessment rolls and they will be ready for distribution by Tuesday of this week. The state officials do not believe that Judge Dixon will cite them for contempt if they proceed with the work.

At a meeting held last evening by the Republican county central committee, it was decided to hold the primaries next Saturday afternoon and the convention Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Broadway theater. It was by a hard fight that the Republicans were allowed to secure the theater as the Democrats left the building in such a shape the other day that the management had practically decided to allow no more conventions in the room. Chairman Hartzell, however, guaranteed the owners of the property that the rowdyism that characterized last Friday's meeting would not be in evidence and the building was secured.

Edward C. Baggs, one of the best known men in this city died last night at St. Joseph's hospital. An effort was made to keep him alive until his brother should reach him from Philadelphia, but it proved unsuccessful. Mr. Baggs came here twelve years ago and has been an energetic worker in the D. A. C. and Overland park clubs ever since. He leaves a widow but no children. His home was formerly in Pennsylvania.

W. H. Moore, a printer running a printing office at 1443 Market street, was arrested yesterday charged with having printed the forged pay checks of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company at Pueblo. One of the men arrested at that city charged with being implicated is said to have confessed and implicated Moore. Hence his arrest.

A special to the Post from Erie, Colorado, says:

"Coal miners of this district are greatly indignant over the notice just posted by the Garfield Fuel company at its mines here. The notice reads:

"'To the Miners, Formerly Employes of Garfield Mine of Erie:

"'You are hereby notified that unless you present yourselves for work or make arrangements with the superintendent of said mine by Monday morning, September 30, 1901, at 7 o'clock, you will not be considered employes of said mine and the company will reserve the right to employ such men whom they deem advisable after said date and hour.

"'(Signed.)
"'GARFIELD FUEL CO.,
"'By William Padfield.'

"There has been more or less trouble between the company and the men and it was only last week that the company claimed it had permission from the Miners union to operate the property upon a conditional scale. A meeting of the local union will be held within twelve hours to take action upon the ultimatum."

The police today captured four men whom they supposed were connected with the safe blowing at Leadville on September 24. The men gave their names as Tom Soley, Fred Atchell, N. Attercorn and Geo. Pearson. The men under arrest are said to answer the description of the men supposed to have been implicated in the job. The first two named compare favorably with the description given of the two men who held up so many parties in this city during the past week. It may also be said that the police are taking every precaution possible to protect the city during the carnival. As fast as suspicious characters arrive they are promptly locked up where they will be held until the carnival is over. The police today also arrested a gang of men who have their names as Face, Stoney, Grace and Williams, who are supposed to be members of a gang of local thieves that have robbed numerous small stores and suburban dwellings during the past month.

NEWS NOTES FROM VICTOR

Death of Frank Firstbrook—Grogan and McArthur Paroled.

Victor Bureau,
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Victor, Sept. 29.—Frank Firstbrook, who was seriously injured by a fall in the Vindicator property on Bull hill yesterday, died this morning at 2 o'clock at his home on Grant avenue. Deceased was 31 years of age and leaves a wife and two children. A brother, residing in Boulder, has been notified of the death and is expected to arrive in this city tomorrow.

Chas. Grogan and James McArthur, the former proprietors of a North Third street assay office, have been paroled from the penitentiary. These two assayers were convicted of receiving stolen ore that was taken from the Mary McKinney mine. They were given a sentence of three to five years, but owing to their excellent behavior in confinement, have been released on parole. They have served about three years.

James Doyle, Scott Ashton and a number of witnesses, left yesterday afternoon for Council Bluffs, Iowa. On October 1, a case of Doyle against President Burns of the Portland company, will come up for trial in that city. This suit involves mining stock and interest in the aggregate of over $1,000,000.

BASEBALL AT FLORENCE.

Special to the Gazette.

Florence, Sept. 29. An interesting game of baseball was played here this afternoon between Cripple Creek Elks and Florence Eagles resulting in a score of 7 to 4 in favor of Florence. The support of each team was good. Batteries, Cripple Creek, Nag and Payne; Florence, McCluskey and Shields. Attendance, 1,000.

FRESH LIGHT ON WORK OF COLUMBUS

By Associated Press.

Paris, Sept. 29. An important work which throws a fresh light on the discovery of America by Columbus has been written by Henry Vignaud, first secretary of the United States embassy here. Mr. Vignaud, who is the vice president of the Americaniste society of Paris, has made a life study of the early history of America.

In an interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press Mr. Vignaud said:

"The present work is intended to show that for the last four centuries we have been deceived by a fraud which hides from us the real beginnings of Columbus' project and that the famous documents ascribed to Toscanelli, the learned Florentine astronomer, were fabricated. I submit excellent reason for believing that Toscanelli never wrote the letter of 1474 to King Alfonso of Portugal and never traced the chart alleged to have accompanied it. Columbus' design was not founded on any scientific basis but on positive confirmation as to the existence of lands to the westward."

PRINCE CHUN IS RECALLED TO CHINA

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Sept. 29.—Prince Chun, head of the Chinese mission of expiation started for China today in obedience to a special command from his brother, Emperor Kwang Su. He will not be allowed to visit European countries or the United States officially. He received a delegation of Protestant missionaries who presented to him an address and a copy of the New Testament, printed in Chinese and German. The minister acted as interpreter. Prince Chun expressed a hope for the return of peaceable conditions.

SURPRISED AT ARRESTS.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 29.—K. N. Leger, minister from Hayti to the United States, today expressed surprise at the reported arrest of prominent Haytiens in Jeremie on the charge of conspiracy and of a serious condition of affairs in the interior of the island. He said that according to news just received by him the country was perfectly quiet.

OBSERVE NEUTRALITY.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Referring to news in regard to the Colombian revolution in which it is said the Liberal party has organized in San Jose, Costa Rica, for the purpose of carrying on the revolution now in progress in Colombia, the Costa Rican minister states his government has observed and will strictly observe the laws of neutrality.

VON WALDERSEE IS WORSE.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Sept. 29.—Count von Waldersee, who is ailing, is worse. He suffers from a painful sore on the leg and has no appetite. He is still at Neuhaus, Wurtemberg, on the estate of his sister-in-law.

GERMAN EMPRESS ILL.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Sept. 29.—Empress Augusta Victoria, whose return from Romanten was earlier than she had intended, is ill and confined to her bed. There is evidently no anxiety regarding her majesty's condition, for Emperor William still remains at Romanten.

TROOPS TO BE WITHDRAWN.

By Associated Press.

Peking, Sept. 29.—It is asserted here on high authority that the German garrison in Shang-hai and the German troops who are guarding the railroad beyond the Kiao-chou boundary will be soon withdrawn. At the request of Dr. Mumm von Schwarzenstein, the German minister, seven Chinese have been tried and sentenced to be beheaded for complicity in the murder of a German trader in a village near Peking.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

Short Line Will Carry the Mails—Baseball at Union Park.

Cripple Creek Bureau,
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Sept. 29.—It is reported here that the C. S. & C. C. D. R. Co. has secured the contract to haul the United States mail into and throughout the district. It is stated that the new contract goes into effect on October 28, and from that time on, there will be two deliveries by carrier in Cripple Creek. Under the new conditions it will be possible to get the mail into the district in such time that it can be delivered within the limits prescribed as the carriers' working day. The new contract will add to the length of the Short Line train and will make the pulling a little harder. The officials of the road state that the train will continue to reach district points on time.

The Colorado City baseball team defeated the Altman-Cameron team this afternoon at Union Park by a score of 18 to 13. The day was a disagreeable one for baseball, as a stiff wind carried huge clouds of dust across the field. The attendance was light. The game was featureless with the exception of the numerous hits and errors.

Cholera in India.

People everywhere are acquainted with the remarkable cures of milder forms of bowel complaints effected by the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is not generally known, however, that this remedy has proved very successful in the treatment of Asiatic cholera and is now sold and used all over India. Mrs. Sd. L. Hiscocks writing from Claer Road, Byculla, India, says: "I have used a good many bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and have found it invaluable as a cure as well as a preventive of cholera. So far I have never known it to fail if given in the early stages." For sale by all druggists.

R·I·P·A·N·S

From Railroad Folks:

Mr. Adam W. Brown, section foreman of a railroad, living at Carp Lake, Mich., writes:

Having been a sufferer from stomach trouble for the past eight years and being cured by Ripans Tabules, I feel it my duty to speak of the great benefit I have received from that medicine. Have been a section foreman for the past fourteen years. For eight years I have suffered dreadfully from stomach trouble, have taken medicine from five different doctors, but all to no avail. I had given up hope of ever being cured. Last fall I got so bad that I had to give up my position altogether. I had an awful gnawing pain in my stomach, every day after each meal, for about three hours, when I would turn deathly sick and then I would vomit. After which I would feel easier until the next meal. I kept on this way until I fell away in flesh from 190 lbs. to 145 pounds, and then I got so weak that I could scarcely walk around. About this time a friend told my wife about Ripans Tabules, and she got a box from the drug store and wanted me to try them. I did so, but did not have any hope of their helping me. I did not notice any change until I had taken about half the box, when I began to feel easier after meals. The gnawing got less and I did not get sick and vomit as before. My appetite came back and I began to feel brighter. I took six boxes of Ripans Tabules in all, which did me more good than all the doctors' medicine. I think there is nothing like Ripans Tabules for stomach trouble, as I gained up to my old weight. I felt splendid until a short time ago, when I began to have headaches quite often. I sent for more Ripans and I have been getting better.

In support of her husband's testimony, Mrs. Adam W. Brown writes as follows: "I really believe had it not been for Ripans Tabules my husband would not have been with us to-day. He was confined to his bed and the doctor could not help him. Another doctor said he had consumption. His stomach trouble affected his heart so that at times I thought he was surely dying. I recommend Ripans Tabules to all sufferers from stomach trouble."

Mr. Chas. E. Clymer, a Camden, N. J., railroad man, writes: I was troubled with the heartburn after eating and have been taking Ripans Tabules and they have given me great relief. I hold a position as foreman on a section of the Pennsylvania Railroad. I have to stoop over a great deal and before I began taking Ripans Tabules when I would be at my work after eating I would feel as if my meals were coming up. I had taken a good many kinds of medicines but did not find relief from them, but Ripans Tabules have done the work. I tell everybody. They have done me a lot of good. I have about thirty men under me and I believe every man takes them now. They would not believe they were any good until they saw what they had done for me. Chas. E. Clymer, Pavonia Sta., Camden, N. J.

ROYAL LIMITED Between NEW YORK AND WASHINGTON, D. C.

Mr. B. F. Marbury, conductor on the Royal Limited, between New York and Washington, D. C., living at 107 8th Street, N. E., Washington, D. C., writes under date of March 27th, 1901:

"I have been on the railroad for ten years, and have tried all kinds of medicine for habitual constipation until a friend gave me some Ripans Tabules. Since then I have always carried a package in my pocket for use. I also give many a tabule to persons I find in distress. Ripans Tabules I find always a great remedy, not only for constipation but also for indigestion and headaches. I give this testimonial for the welfare of others. I always have a package with me on the train and my wife keeps them in the house."

Dr. Ellison treats consumption, asthma, bronchitis, hay fever, catarrh and the chronic disease common to men, women and children, devoting his professional time exclusively to this class of practice. In every vocation specialty work is now demanded. This is notably true when life and health are at stake. It is then that the best medical service the profession affords should be procured. This is only possible when you employ the physician who has attained professional skill by making investigations concerning the care and treatment of certain diseases. If you suffer from acute disease, call your family physician. If you suffer from chronic disease, consult Dr. Ellison. In the past three years nearly two thousand tubercular lung and throat cases have been under treatment by his attenuated sulphur, with the lowest death rate on record. The sulphur treatment can be taken at your home. Examination free. Office, 24 North Tejon street (over Craigue's Grocery store). Office hours, from 9 to 12, 2 to 5, 7 to 8; Sundays, from 2 to 3.

In relation to the intellect, that is faculty in man which discerns the bible, as a book, gives light; is the oldest authentic history of race. Before Manetho, the Egyp- had written the history of his before Socrates had promulgat-ed his principles of wisdom, before the pyramids had lifted up their monumental heads or the temples of Karnak bore trace of hieroglyphic "holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

In point of importance it is the first of books. The Vedas, the Shasters, the Canonicals of pagan, religious literature, in their very best sentiments, are only dim reflections of its unborrowed glory. Two-thirds of all the books in the libraries of the world have been written on subjects suggested by it, and so indigenous is the seed of its truth to the soil of the world—so universal is its adaptability to the acknowledged need of every cult and class and community, that its precepts have been printed in 400 different tongues.

In its literary quality and influence the place it holds is a unique place. "A celebrated oriental scholar makes this confession, "Your sacred book contains more true sublimity, more exquisite beauty, more important history and finer strains of poetry and eloquence than can be collected from all other books that have ever been written." Side by side with this fine eulogium may be placed the dictum of Sir Walter Scott, "It is impossible to give a reason for the common neglect of the bible. Beyond dispute it is the masterpiece of literature. Merely as a treasure house of style, of racy expression, of piercing metaphor, of poetry that exhausts language and leaves it quivering with pathos and power it is the one book." Turn to Carlyle and see what he has to say in his "Hero-worship" of the book of Job, "Such living likenesses were never since drawn. Sublime sorrow, sublime reconciliation, oldest choral melody as of the heart of mankind, so soft and great, as the summer midnight, as the world with its seas and stars. I call it, apart from all theories about it, one of the grandest things ever written with a pen." When some one, in the presence of Alfred Tennyson, compared his picture of old age in the "Ancient Sage" to that of Solomon in the book of Ecclesiastes, the poet remarked, "I only wish it were; never could I equal that description." "Who does not know that the best elements of Shakespeare's immortal contribution to literature have taken color from the beauties of the bible? Of its 66 books, he quotes from no fewer than 54. In his 37 plays he makes in all 550 quotations, nor is there a single one of the 37 without some such reference, quotation or allusion. "It is a belief in the bible," declares Goethe, "which has served me as the guide of my literary life." It requires no close study to reveal that the Red Cross Knight in Spencer's "Fairie Queen" is but Paul's armored Christian in the 6th of Ephesians. Bryant's "Thanatopsis" caught its fine inspiration from a luminous passage in the book of Job. Pope's "Messiah" is little more than an exquisite paraphrase of Isaiah's prophecy. Milton found the plot of his sublime epic in early Genesis, and, it is safe to say, Wordsworth's great "Ode to Immortality" could never have been written had not the eighth of Romans been written first. "The wonder of wonders," says Joseph Parker of London, "is that you never get through it. You get through all other books and lay them aside, but you never get through the bible. I have preached twenty-five volumes of sermons on that book, and, now, as I have written my very last word, what is my feeling about it? Why simply this, I have not yet begun. The infinite variety of material in it at once amazes the student and incites to study."

Thus testimony after testimony might be adduced in proof of its value as a book among books—as a text book for orators and a standard of authority for the poets and a school of philosophy for the intenser moods of life. And, side by side with its literary worth, it might be shown how art has felt its touch—how the graphic pages of its history have been a gallery for the genius of the painter and a quarry for the sculptor; how the world of aesthetic culture had been poor beyond conception had Angelo not seen his ideal in "Moses" or the "Last Judgment;" had the keen eye of Titian not rested on the "Transfiguration" of Hermon; had Raphael's soul vision not discovered the majesty of his "Sistine Madonna" in his more than half-worship of Mary, the mother; had Reubens not beheld in the high sense of faith "The descent from the Cross." And, did time permit, we might enter the great temple of music wherein Miriam led the national anthem of a free people and David made melody for his wonderful heart songs and the angels chanted their "Gloria in Excelsis" into the hearts of men we might sweep the responsive chords of worship from the moment when "the morning stars sang together" until John in the beatific glory of Patmos caught the keynote of the new song from the lips of the redeemed, and, then, we might pause a minute to ask Handel where he got his "Messiah" or Mendelssohn his "Elijah" or Beethoven his "Mount of Olives" or Liszt his "Saint Elizabeth" or Gaul his "Holy City."

But we must pass, hastily, from this [illegible] of this book to now [illegible]

2. In relation to the ordination and enforcement of just law the bible as a book gives light. Conscience is God's officer in the breast of man or in the public assize and the sanction of conscience is the sanction of the book. When I see it is the hand of the man who stands before a new president, as he takes the oath of responsible office, or in the hand of a common magistrate as the lips of a criminal imprints upon it the kiss of asseveration, I see it in as sacred a use as when the gospel minister finds within it for sanctuary worship "the savor of life unto life or the savor of death unto death." When a young man inquired of Daniel Webster the secret of his pre-eminent success in his mastery of the processes of law, the great jurist answered, "Study the bible—the loftiest sanctions of all law are found in it;" and, there is on record a statement once made by Thomas Jefferson which reads thus, "I always have said, and I always will say that the studious perusal of the sacred volume makes better fathers, better husbands, better citizens."

Higher criticism has not been an unmixed evil by any means. From the reverent side of its diligent search it has called fresh attention to the practical value of the bible as an authority on questions of capital importance outside the purely spiritual realm. It has led the student of social problems and the preacher who pleads for just relations between man and man not to the codes of Lycurgus or the Roman institutes, but, back of these, to the enactments of Moses, the ethics of the prophets or the simple yet deep-going precepts of Jesus Christ.

The public mind is educated slowly by arguments; quickly by events and the bible is a book of events. It has been the manual of saints and martyrs and it strikes in a thousand keys the note of sublime resignation, of splendid optimism, of supreme confidence in the will of an over-ruling God, but it is a manual of national heroes as much as it is a manual of saints and martyrs. It exploits the heroic undertakings of men like Moses and Joshua and Samuel and Elijah as they dared for righteousness or reformed the abuses of idolatrous worship or kindled the flames of patriotic devotion on the altars of their fathers; and, after Puritan and Covenanter and Hollander and Huguenot blended their pure impulses for the best blood and the best brain of a new nation, they did so out of a fortitude made invincible at the campfires of freedom and faith, with their challenge to all the centuries the battle cry of the book, "Jehovah of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge."

3. In relation to the radiation of healthful and hallowed moral influence the bible as a book gives light.

"Unquestionably our ideas of the bible have been greatly enlarged and clarified by the growth of modern knowledge. It has yielded to a more rational interpretation since "The thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns." No intelligent reader is found to regard it as a sort of cyclopedia in which may be found every ascertainable fact—a sort of post graduate university wherein every field of exact sciences may be traversed. The intelligent reader is willing to abide by the bible's definitions of itself, content that it is "profitable for instruction in righteousness" if not intended for instruction in the "Nebular hypothesis" or the "Theory of Ellipsis."

It is pre-eminently the moral handbook of the race. It appeals to its profoundest convictions of right and wrong, it corrects, like a priest, its relationships, it acts as an arbitor between man and man. If you have seen Kaulbach's cartoon of "The Era of the Reformation," you have seen a representative picture of the chief men of the 15th and 16th centuries gathered in an ample portico; poets, artists, philosophers, discoverers—a noble group, and, in the center of them, Martin Luther, holding in his hand a book whose pages emit a light which seems to illuminate the illustrious assembly. For Kaulbach it is the book of a moral conviction; it is this book—God's book and man's book.

Whence, we ask, the widespread impulse of philanthropy which compassionates the suffering, creates new environment for the unfortunate, and coaxes back lost life to the mercy of a second chance among men? And, as I impress upon your memory the fact that you never once have heard of a "Tom Paine hospital" or a "Voltaire Refuge for the Destitute," or a "Bradlaugh House for the Helpless Aged," or a "Robert G. Ingersol Retreat for the Feeble-Minded," for common answer I refer to the influence of the book.

Whence the strong, flowing tide of higher education which carries on its beneficent bosom intelligence quickened by ambition to excel, crowned by fine genius for invention, embellished by a love of the beautiful and chastened by faith? And, as I open the white portals of Harvard and Yale and Princeton and Oxford and Cambridge and Edinburg to the high-aspiring manhood of the world, I open the portals of schools which had the great God and human character in sight at their founding, and for common answer I refer you to the influence of the book.

Whence the heaven-like holiness of homes, like the humble home at Canton, which was, at once, the palace of a president, the Edenic roof-tree of wedded lovers, the sacred chamber of memorials never far from two little graves and, for all time, a nation's shrine; and, as memory of the old-time music comes back again and the advice of a mother stays near, like a guardian angel amid the battles of life, and new homes grows out of the old homes like branches from trees of righteousness, for common answer I refer you to the influence of the book.

Whence spring the potent forces which make for the purity of social conditions and check in some measure the invasion of American barbarism in easy divorce and the open saloon? Whence the urgency of national demand which asks for man, the mere animal or man, the immortal, one day in seven, free from the conscienceless intrusion of low-browed materialism in cheap-grade pleasure and sordid money-getting? And for common answer I refer you to the influence of the book.

Here I must stop. Only the narrowest horizon of the truth-illuminated field has been swept; endless infinitudes lie beyond. I might go on to speak of the spiritual force it has generated, of the spiritual activities it has awakened, of the spiritual benedictions it has spoken. I might have called up ten thousand testimonies in illustration of the broken hearts it has helped to comfort, of the despairing lives it has helped back to hope, of the doubt-darkened spirits it has helped to set free. I might have drawn aside the veil of life's secrecies to show how it has smoothed out wrinkles from the brow of sufferers, how it has made many a loved one's bed of death seem soft as downy pillows are, how it has let mystic light fall in on the world's gathering shadows of loneliness and separation like the day dawn of glories beyond the world. But I did not start out to do this. I have sought to show how it has elevated the tone of all literature and made securer the processes of all legislation and made quicker the pulse-beat of all generosities and made holier the sanction of all relationships, and having shown this, some manner of proof has been provided in support of the contention that, apart altogether, from its purely spiritual teachings it is worth preserving.

Have you caught the spirit of the argument, have you admitted the weight of its conclusions; have you yielded the consent of both heart and mind to the inestimable value of the book to a rational, soul-possessing, heaven-expecting being just like you? Then hear the end of the whole matter, you have either resolved to master it by study, as the traveller masters his guide-book, as a soldier masters his manual of tactics, as a physician masters his materia medica, as a mariner masters his chart of the seas, or you have resolved to sin against it by neglect.

I tell you honestly I am not troubled about the ultimate results of higher criticism; the sword of the spirit is the word of God to sever all connection between error and truth. I am not troubled beyond a sincere sorrow for his blindness, about how much the agnostic doubts it or the skeptic laughs at it or the ashiest denies; but I am troubled lest the membership of a calvary-purchased church should neglect it.

A young soldier dying at Lookout mountain beckoned for his knapsack, and, when a comrade raised his head and laid it on a blanket, he whispered, "That's good, but it's not what a dying man needs most." His comrade brought him a drink of water and he repeated, "That's good, but it's not what a dying man needs most." Then with his last strength he laid his head on his mothers new testament and said, "Comrade, try it at the 14th of John, and, as trembling lips read, "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you," he said, "Yes, that's what a dying man needs most," and rose from his blood-stained bed to glory and immortality and honor.

Let me change by one word the soldier's last testimony to the value of the book, "That's what a living man needs most."

Christian Faith and Its Trials

At the M. E. church, South, yesterday morning, Rev. E. Evans Carrington preached on the theme: "The Tension of Faith." Following is a synopsis of the discourse:

Hebrews, 10: 22: "Let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith."

It is probably true, paradoxical as it may appear, that most men, however ungodly, really desire the prosperity of of the church of God. It goes without the saying that all professed followers of Jesus Christ are personally interested in the spread of the gospel and in the practical extension of His kingdom. Why then have we to regret comparative failure with the promise of superlative success before us?

Assuming a general belief in the teaching of scripture and sincerity of purpose on the part of the average Christian, we shall probably discover the cause of our halting conduct in a defective conception of the functions of Christian faith.

There are many problems in religion which reason cannot completely solve, and yet reason has its own proper place in our religion. Where reason's limit is reached then faith comes to our help; not a blind faith but a rational faith, for the Christian faith is not the belief of what is contrary to reason. "The human spirit is not a thing divided against itself, in which faith and reason subsist side by side, each asserting as absolute principles contradicted by the other."

It must be admitted that while the existence of a Divine Creator may be demonstrated in a logical way, to the vast majority of men the divine existence must be a matter of faith.

Even if the law of adaptation in nature and the argument of design fail to establish an invariable certainty, yet the probabilities preponderate to so large an extent that they afford the ordinary every-day believer a rational basis for his faith.

The same reasoning holds good in regard to the moral government of God,—the writer of this epistle says "He that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is the rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." It is at this point that the average Christian stumbles. The old testament heroes suffered because of their unfaltering faith in God, whose promises to them were absolute certainties. The noble army of martyrs refused to accept deliverance that they might obtain a better resurrection and not that they understood the mystery of God's providence, for to the superficial observer and narrow reason, it often seemed that the ungodly were more prosperous and more highly favored than were the most stalwart believers.

Let it never be forgotten that what is most valuable and priceless in our own civilization was purchased for us by the self-sacrificing heroes of the past. They paid the price of torture and death, not because reason solved the problem to their satisfaction, but because of their mighty faith.

In Jesus Christ men have discovered that character is what counts and that its highest and noblest expression is in service.

Faith is not merely a mental assent; it is also the surrender of the heart, which means the surrender of the whole man to God. Only in this way can we understand what is meant by the full assurance of faith. If the Christian has this full assurance, he will express it in his conduct.

If his daily life is an expression of doubt, his faith is weak or slack. What we need today is to feel the tension of our faith in God under the stress of trial, disappointments and suffering. If our faith in Him is so positive and abiding that its vibration thrills us into a holy enthusiasm, the world will take knowledge of us and our lives will indeed be living epistles. We sometimes talk about having our hands in the hand of our heavenly father and yet have no consciousness of the divine touch.

It is the function of faith to stimulate to lifelong well-doing, steady and invincible.

Unfortunately it is too true of most of us that, as Emerson puts it, "Our faith comes in moments; our vice is habitual."

Let not the man of feeble faith be disheartened however, for "weak endeavor is the germ of great power." Our confidence in God will grow in proportion as we express it in our lives, until after awhile it becomes to us the very foundation of things hoped for.

"Faith, mighty faith the promise sees,
And looks to that alone,
It laughs at impossibilities
And cries, it shall be done."

Self Victory Is World Victory

The subject of Rev. Dr. Edward Braislin's sermon at the First Baptist church last evening was "The Live Coal, or Self Victory Is World Victory." A large congregation listened to the sermon, which was, in part, as follows:

Isaiah 6:7, 'Lo, this hath touched thy lip.'

It was indeed an appalling task to which as statesman and prophet Isaiah was called. He was to hold before his nation the divine ideals of character and government, while he was distinctly told at the outset that they would not understand him, and what was worse, that his work designed as it was to ennoble them, would but blind their eyes with its brilliance and deepen their slumber. Isaiah inquired "How long?" and he was informed "Until the land be utterly desolate." In one word the greatest of prophets was called and destined to a hopeless career—measured by ordinary human standards. Many a great soul has feared in advance that his life work might be abortive, but Isaiah knew it.

We may not say that it is wrong to work for ends that are visible and tangible. There are legitimate earthly rewards to an honorable and industrious life and we are right in appealing to these as incentives to young men and women to live highly and rightly. But the truth never to be forgotten is this, that duty is to be pursued for its own sake and not for the sake of its rewards. Consequences are inconsequent to the man whose vision of the right is unclouded. "As God gives us to see the right," was Abraham Lincoln's immortal appeal to his countrymen to go forward with the uncertain task of civil war. "As God gives me to see the right" should be every man's simple sub[illegible] it will, it is the only guide to happy harvests, to come sometime somewhere. Unless I mistake this was the essential of that great revelation in the temple in which Isaiah was transformed from an ordinary self-seeking man of great but unconsecrated talents to a man of the highest genius and the divinest power. He has survived the "utter desolation," into which his people were plunged, and there is no brighter name, no name more influential for good to this day in all the illustrious history of the Hebrews than is the name of Isaiah.

Look briefly at that transformation in the temple: for tasks both great and small await all earnest men yet. From the appalling vision of work and danger and opportunity, that confronts Theodore Roosevelt, who comes to his task conscious of God and with no desire to flee from his presence, to the more limited but not less noble duties and opportunities that await us all, there is no escape from the choice of squaring our lives to human or to divine ambitions. There is just one aspect of this great subject to which I want to confine myself, namely that there are really no dangers, no obstacles to a true success, and no troubles awaiting any man in the coming years, but such as originate in himself. After all, the world is incapable in the long run of doing any positive harm to any man. We can already see that just as Jesus Christ was transfigured and enthroned by the worst thing mankind could do to Him, and so our Lincoln lives more profoundly and more widely than he could have lived, had no part of the world done him violence. Nay, although it was but yesterday he died, we know that no assassin could really kill or even harm Mr. McKinley. If we are to measure life by the standard of its actual worth to men, it is always true that the life itself being right, the hate and violence of men only promotes its value. It is only when we estimate life by the low standard of personal enjoyment, private emolument, or freedom from pain, that we fail to see this—but that low standard is the coward's standard and for him there is a sure and swift oblivion. No! the truth is that success is now always inside the man himself, and won there, the moral universe stands pledged that it shall be won in every world and in all time whither the man goes, with his body or without it.

Notice in illustration of this regnancy of the inner life over the outer, that haunting sense of being out of one's place, that sometimes makes us miserable. Isaiah no sooner saw the vision of God and the seraphim than he felt like fleeing, felt himself in a presence that was not in harmony with him—nor was it, but there was no trouble in that temple outside of Isaiah himself. Almost all of the restlessness that drives men over the world from place to place, from occupation to occupation, is simply self centered. There is no place on earth, no occupation, so mean that it cannot furnish sphere for the full splendor of the lordliest man. The trouble is that lordliness is not in the man and not being there he finds it nowhere. When I first read Longfellow's poem upon the river Charles, I wondered I had never noticed the name in my geography, but when I saw the little commonplace stream, I understood—Longfellow. Be sure when you feel yourself out of place that you will remedy nothing by changing your place. And then, too—think of it—the only reason why Isaiah was out of place in the presence of the Almighty was in that Isaiah, not the Almighty, needed changing. In a very short time Isaiah was perfectly at home in that presence and in that temple and perfectly pliant to the fearful task set him from that home. God is every man's bosom friend, once the bosom is hospitable.

The greatest transformations ever wrought in any of us are due to the awakening in us of a sense of unfitness, and this comes only when we see something so much better than ourselves that the contrast is overpowering. God, when seen by mortal eyes or the eyes of the mind, is an alarming vision, crushing to one's pride. We never see ourselves until we see God. God is the electric light that illumines a man's own self to himself. And the crushing sense of humiliation in the presence of purity and love is the most hopeful thing that can come to a man. That humiliation is penitence. There can be no penitence without it. That fearful consciousness of contrast between self and God is what the old theologians called conviction of sin. There is no better name for it yet. And once that contrast presses into the soul, God draws near and nearer. And then, too, I beg you to mark that all the mighty work that purifies and ranks the penitent with the divine seraphim and their God, is wrought by God Himself. The coal of fire is brought by the heavenly agent, the touch on the lips is His touch, and it is He who declares "Thine iniquity is taken away, thy sin is purged." And once the man stands freed from sin, although his intellectual education remains the same and his past history remains his, yet his qualification for successful conquest and for great service is all new—the battle with the world is won. Believe me, sin is the only barrier to usefulness and happiness, the only bar to ultimate success, perhaps in this world, but always largely despite this world. Fear men, work for their favor, sell yourself for their gold and be sure you will wander ever out of your place until you find the place where there is no good, and rest at last a pauper and powerless there. But humbled and penitent before God, and a subject for His mercy in the living fire that cleanses and transforms the soul and then—forth to the highest tasks among men and on to fullness of life, the praise and fellowship of the noblest and the "well done" of God's own Son.

INDUSTRIAL WORLD CONQUERING.

AMERICA is expanding in some lines that even Edward Atkinson and his followers cannot disapprove. Andrew Carnegie has declared that nation must be first in commerce that controls the cheapest steel, and America is that country. With all troubles settled between the steel workers and employers, American industrial expansion will again go ahead with great leaps and bounds. Tourists now go from Cairo to the Pyramids in American electric cars. American-made cars will soon be running from the seaport of Athens to the Parthenon. In Korea, the Seoul-Chemulpo railway has been built by H. Collbran, formerly of this city, and sold to the Japanese. It connects the capital with its seaport. In London, Mr. Yerkes is supplying the city with American systems of urban transportation. India, Russia and China are using American engines. Americans are getting concessions everywhere, and sugar plants, factories, etc., are springing up in regions the very names of which were unknown to a majority of Americans 10 years ago.

American steel is supreme. Our mills turn out more than one-third of the product of the world. The total output of American mills is 11,375,000 tons annually. The Carnegie company produces double the quantity of steel made in France, and the Carnegie and Federal Steel companies combined make more than all of Great Britain.

The fires that burn in the steel mills are conquering the nations of earth more successfully and more enduringly than could the cannon of the greatest navy that could be constructed. If Uncle Sam wants to be really melodramatic he can bob up on any old island of the sea and, like the hero in "Monte Cristo," exclaim, "The world is mine."

A thing that has always been amazing to many people is the pride that many people in western Missouri have ever taken in the miserable bands of murderers and outlaws who once infested it. Time has lent a romantic charm to Robin Hood and Rob Roy; we can even enjoy a tale of Captain Kidd and the cutthroats of the sea; but the Missouri outlaws were sordid and commonplace and are not yet in the perspective. One does not have to live very long in Kansas City to discover that the shadow of the James gang is a very real shadow. Under the caption "Missouri's Shame" the Topeka Capital says some very pertinent things regarding a reunion of the Quantrell band. We quote:

> Yesterday's Kansas City Times has an elaborate report of a Missouri society function, the reunion at Sweet Springs, of Quantrell's cutthroats. The survivors of the band, says the Times, are few, "for time's scythe has reaped heavily during the past few years." There are about 50 still living, including the Youngers, who, for reasons of state, were unable to leave Minnesota to attend this function. The others talked over old times and seemed to enjoy the reminiscences of the midnight ride to Lawrence and the subsequent slaughter of its unarmed and defenseless inhabitants. "One of the most terrible chapters in the history of warfare," the Times calls it.
> The massacre at Lawrence was not properly speaking, a chapter of warfare; there was no opportunity for defense, no chance to arm. Men were murdered on their doorsteps and by their firesides in cold blood in the presence of their terrified wives and wondering children. When these assassins had satisfied their desire for blood, they sacked and burnt the town. The deed was so cowardly and barbarous that it is incomprehensible that the surviving members of the gang that perpetrated it should care to celebrate their infamy by annual reunions.
> Quantrell's band and their bloody deeds are among the things that Americans would prefer to forget. The confederate government did not attempt to justify or indorse the damning record of these midnight prowlers and assassins, and denied responsibility for their deeds. They were against humanity, against the laws of war. The gang never fought in the open, but stole upon its unsuspecting victims, struck its dastardly blow and vanished. Its members were outlaws in time of war, as their legitimate successors, the James gang, were in time of peace. "The central figure at the reunion today," the Times says, "was Frank James, the ex-bandit, who, prior to the time he was hounded by officers, was a member of Quantrell's band." The honors showered on Frank James by the survivors this week were in keeping with the lawless and disreputable name Quantrell's infamous band enjoys in history. No other state than Missouri would tolerate such celebrations of its own shame.

THE EFFICACY OF PRAYER.

THE DISCUSSION as to the import and effect of prayer is being thoroughly discussed in the religious papers as a result of the heavenly petitions during the late drouth and at the time of the assassination of the president. The outcome seems to be that prayer is answered as truly by withholding as by granting the thing asked for. A quarter of a century ago Professor Tyndall offered a prayer test in the hospitals of London, and there was a violent denunciation of the skeptical view. To hold that prayer could have no influence on conditions fixed by natural laws was then generally considered the extreme of blasphemy. Says the Springfield Republican:

> Still there is value in prayer—a value which is the basis of all the so-called mind-cures, faith-cures, Christian Science and theosophy itself. It is the power of the soul over the physical envelope, the spiritual essence over the bodily manifest. And the prayer from without the sufferer (to restrict the matter closely to concrete cases, like this last tragedy) may have its cumulative influence in sustaining, strengthening and stimulating his reserve forces. It might, perchance, have effect even when the subject of prayer knew not of it, for who can say that we have even begun to know what waves of spirit may lift and buoy up the soul to whose help they are set in motion? But here, as in all moral crises, there must be effort aroused in the subject of this effluence.

It is estimated Mrs. McKinley will have a fortune that will bring her an income of about $10,000 a year. It is pleasant to know that the widow of the president will be spared all financial trouble, but undoubtedly congress will do something. This will be following the precedent set at the time of Garfield's assassination. Mrs. Garfield received her husband's salary for the rest of the year in which he was killed, a pension of $5,000 a year for life, and the right to use the mails without the payment of postage. Congress paid for the medical attendance and the expense of the funeral. In the Garfield case the medical bills amounted to $35,500, but he lay for 70 days after being shot. The large item now will be the railroad expenses for the trains from Buffalo to Washington and then to Canton.

In the death of John George Nicolay this week the country lost an interesting figure. Mr. Nicolay was the private secretary of President Lincoln while he was president of the United States. Colonel Hay, now the secretary of state, was Mr. Lincoln's military secretary and assistant to Mr. Nicolay. Both were young men from Illinois and were employed at Springfield at campaign headquarters during the campaign of 1860. Mr. Lincoln liked them and took them to Washington with him. The history that they jointly compiled a dozen years ago is the most authoritative publication on Lincoln and affairs at the White house during the war that we have. Mr. Nicolay has lived quietly at Washington for many years.

The personal relations of the president and Governor General Wood of Cuba are very close, and the islanders can feel an assurance that in their military governor they have an influential friend at court. Governor Wood is contending that the Cuban people are now quite ready for self-government under free institutions. He has perhaps a better knowledge of Cuban disposition and capacity than any other officer who has served there, and he is trusted and respected by the people. After the Cuban general election in December next, and subsequent installation of successful officers, the substitution of domestic civil authority for alien military control on the island should be accomplished with ease and celerity.

The custom of advancing officers on the eve of their retirement that they may draw more pay from the government cannot be unreservedly commended. However, there will be none to criticise the first act of President Roosevelt in advancing General James M. Bell, because his career was a long and distinguished one. He began as a volunteer in the civil war and was brevetted four times for distinguished services, and then saw service among the Indians on the frontier. In the Santiago campaign he commanded the Eighth cavalry and was wounded at Guasimas. He did good work later in the Philippines.

We have not yet had the equinoctial storm, which leads an eastern exchange to challenge the old theory. That the atmosphere is disturbed on the 21st of March or September because the sun crosses an imaginary line seems doubtful. Accurate and prolonged observations do not give much evidence in support of equinoctial storms. To prove that the sun's relation to the equator is productive of storms it is necessary to show greater uniformity in the equinoctial disturbances.

Prince Chun protested against the slight charge of 10 times the regular price at the Berlin hotel where he stopped, and that leads the Baltimore American to wonder what he would say if he tried a few days at an American summer resort house.

NEW EPOCH IN PRESIDENTS.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

Mr. McKinley was probably the last of the presidents whom the country will have who served in the civil war. Theodore Roosevelt was only three years old in the early days of the war of secession. True, he is younger than any other president whom the country has ever had. The chances are, however, that the chief magistrate hereafter will belong to a later generation of men than did those who controlled the nation's destinies from Lincoln's days onward to those of McKinley. All this list of elected presidents served in the army during the civil war except Mr. Cleveland.

When Martin Van Buren was elected two-thirds of a century ago the country realized that a new epoch in the nation's history had been reached. He was the first of the presidents who was born after the close of the war of independence. All his predecessors, even Jackson, the man who was in office directly before him, had either participated in the war or were old enough to remember its passions and to be influenced, in some degree, at least, by the issues which that conflict created or by the passions which it generated. Van Buren was born in the last month of 1782, just after the preliminary treaty was signed by which George III. recognized the independence of his late colonies.

In the present instance also a new landmark in the nation's history has been reached. It is now over 36 years since Lee's veterans stacked arms for the last time. Forty years will have passed from that date by the time the next president is inaugurated. Not many men in the army at the close of 1865 were below 22 or 23 years of age. Few of them who will be alive in 1905 will be under 65 years of age, and that mark is pretty close to the dead line in presidential ambition. Only three presidents have been as old as 65 at the time of their inauguration—William Henry Harrison, Taylor and Buchanan—and the last named was the only one of them who lived through his term. The chances are that the country has seen in the presidential office the last of the men who fought in the civil war. The present president belongs to a later generation and it is likely that all his successors will. A new page in the nation's history has been turned.

JOSEF HOFMANN TO PIANO PLAYERS.

The Famous Pianist's Advice to Those Who Are Studying Music.

"Do not practice longer than two hours in succession; altogether, not more than six hours daily," writes Josef Hofmann in The Ladies' Home Journal for October in telling about "Playing the Piano Correctly." "Beware of overstudying your pieces, and stop when you have been fairly successful a few times with the passage which you have been studying. It is advisable to keep the ears open rather than the eyes, and always to use the best possible instrument for practicing, so that you may know whether it is the fault of the fingers if you miss a tone. In this way the ear will be accustomed to euphony, and the sense for beauty of sound will be cultivated. Quick passages should be repeatedly be played at a slower tempo, slow ones at a quicker tempo, the latter because a tendency to dragging is created by the constant slow playing of a passage. Do not waste too much time on finger exercises. In the long run they will impair the musical nature of the student. You can employ your time much better by selecting technically difficult passages from good compositions and practicing them like etudes. I would also advise the student to attend orchestral concerts as frequently as possible, for these are of greater benefit than anything else. Follow no system in practicing. Do not play from 9 o'clock sharp until 12 every forenoon, and so on through several years, but play different pieces at different hours and on different days. Never practice until fatigued."

Our Greatest Actor.

As I look back upon Mr. Warren and his playing, the lives of his rivals seem narrow, monotonous, and unfruitful, says Henry Austin Clapp in the September Atlantic. His art touched life as life is presented in the drama, at ten thousand points. His plays were in every mode and mood of the comic muse and ranged in quality from the best of Shakespeare to the worst of Dr. Jones. In old-fashioned farces, with their strong, sometimes vulgar, often noisy, usually vital fun; in tawdry patriotic or emotional melodramas; in cheap local pieces, narrow and petty in their appeal; in delicate French comediettas, whose colors are laid on with a brush like Meissonier's; in English versions of the best Parisian dramas, subtle, unsophisticated, exigent of finesse and adresse in the player—in each and all of these Mr. Warren was easily chief among many good actors; to the demands of each and all he was amply adequate. The one fault of his style was a slight excess in the use of stentorian tones the result, I suspect, of his early immersion in farce; and his gift of pathetic suggestion, though generally sure, did not always have the deepest penetrative power. Otherwise, it may be said, with sober scruple for the exact truth, that Mr. Warren was nearly faultless. His acting seemed the fine flower of careful culture, as well as the free outcome of large intelligence and native genius. His enunciation and pronunciation of English were beyond criticism. His Latin was perfect, even in its quantities. His French was exquisite in intonation, and its accent was agreeable to Parisian ears. In all details of costume and "make-up" he showed the nicest taste and judgment, and the results of scholarly pains. So, Mr. Warren was a school of conservatory of acting in himself. In him Boston had a Theatre Francais, situated on Tremont street; and Boston ought to be ashamed of itself that it did not derive more profit from the inspection and enjoyment of his masterly art than the present time gives any proof of.

Carlyle Was an Artist.

He was certainly an artist—to the point, indeed, which makes it possible to say that he is quite misconceived if the plastic element in his composition is not prominently considered. He cared nothing whatever for art. It escaped him altogether. When he did not neglect, he insulted it. "May the devil fly away with the fine arts," he quotes sympathetically from some enlightened authority, or other—perhaps, more suo, supposititious. It had for him the curious moral connotation it might have had for his Covenanter ancestry had they known of its existence—for example, the feeble Dante fresco portrait once ascribed to Giotto, his interpretation of which is as absurd as anything in Ruskin, and, in another way, the puerile picture of "The Little Drummer," in which Frederick figures as a child. His praise of Dante's "song" is inferred from his appreciation of its burden, not due to a feeling for its wonderful integumental music. Froude says his ear was deficient and his metrical experiments a failure, which is true enough in general, though the translation of Goethe's noble verses in "Past and Present," is adequate and even moving. But any appeal purely to the aesthetic faculty he suspected and whatever he suspected, of course, he either derided or denounced. It is singular that this does not qualify his worship of Goethe.

His lack of aesthetic appreciation, however, neither obscures nor obstructs his striking powers of artistic expression. He made his own picture, to which everything he saw was contributory material. He was so egotistic that the combinations of others did not interest him. And his picture is always sapiently, savamment, constructed. You may like the technic or not, but the effect and the effect evidently preconceived, arranged, combined is not to be denied. His praise of unconsciousness is, as I have already said, manifestly a reaction from the discomfort and often misery with which his extremely conscious composition was attended.—(From "Thomas Carlyle," by W. C. Brownell in the October Scribner's.

Tree-climbing Dogs.

The pack had many interesting peculiarities, but none more so than the fact that four of them climbed trees. Only one of the hounds, little Jimmie, ever tried the feat, but of the fighters, not only Tony and Baldy, but big Turk climbed every tree that gave them any chance. The pinyons and cedars were low, multi-forked, and usually sent off branches from near the ground. In consequence the dogs could, by industrious effort, work their way almost to the top. The photograph of Turk and the bobcat in the pinyon (page 425) shows them at an altitude of about thirty feet above the ground. Now and then a dog would lose his footing and come down with a whack which sounded as if he must be disabled, but after a growl and a shake he would start up the tree again. They could not fight well while in a tree, and were often scratched or knocked to the ground by a cougar, and when the quarry was shot out of its perch and seized by the expectant throng below, the dogs in the tree, yelping with eager excitement, dived headlong down through the branches regardless of consequences.—(From "With the Cougar Hounds," by Theodore Roosevelt, in the October Scribner's.

What a Great Pianist Calls Good Playing.

The chief beauty of performing on the piano consists of unconstrained and yet correct playing. Everything should be executed with strict adherence to the text, but without apparent effort and constraint. In practicing one should proceed conscientiously, and constantly correct one's self. But when playing, everything should become natural and show spontaneity and conviction.—(Josef Hofmann, in The Ladies' Home Journal for October.

Land Security

Is, primarily, the basis of all financial security. No class of securities rank with those which rest upon landed property. When values of every kind shrink, or fluctuate, nothing is, relatively, so stable as good real estate. The business of The Assurance Savings and Loan Association, of this city, has been successfully conducted upon the theory that carefully selected, improved real property affords the best possible security for loans. TWO CHILDREN ARE MISSING

Little Harry Devin and His Sister, Agnes, Run Away From Home---Fears for Their Safety.

Since yesterday morning Harry Devin, aged 11 years, and his sister, Agnes, one year his junior, have been missing from their home, No. 524 East Kiowa street, and the police have been unable to find any trace of them. Up to a late hour last night all efforts to find any clew to the whereabouts of the boy and girl were unavailing and their parents fear for their safety.

After breakfast yesterday morning the youngsters left home. They had been talking of running away from home, but their childish threats had caused little attention. When they did not return home for dinner a search was started for them, but they could not be found. Their playmates in the neighborhood were questioned, but no one had seen the brother and sister at any time during the day.

At two o'clock the children's father, David Devin, went to the police station and notified Sergeant McNew of the disappearance of Harry and Agnes. All the officers were told to keep a lookout for the runaways, but no trace was found of them. It is thought that they might have left the city in a freight train.

The boy is dark complexioned, and when he left home wore a black hat, black coat and blue overalls. His sister is of light complexion, with golden hair and blue eyes, and wore a brown dress and a straw hat.

Early this morning the police telephoned to the Denver authorities asking them to keep a lookout for the missing youngsters. It is thought they might have gone to Denver to see the festival which begins tomorrow.

Fred Ege, Pioneer, Died Last Night

Fred Ege, one of the pioneers of this city, died at eight o'clock last night at his home at the corner of Weber and ...illa streets, after an illness of six months. Owing to the advanced age of Mr. Ege his death from a complication of diseases was not unexpected. Mr. Ege, who was a skilled wood worker, came to this part of Colorado in 1872. His son, Manitou, born shortly after the family came here, is said to have been the first white child born in Manitou, and he was named after that place.

Mr. Ege lived in Colorado Springs most of the time for the past 25 years. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and other organizations.

Two Cool Thieves Stole a Buggy

Marshal Cree, of Manitou, is on the trail of two daring thieves who stole a buggy belonging to Charles Brougher from a stable in that part of town Saturday night. The marshal ...s to head off the robbers in Denver as it is believed they went in that direction.

The robbery was one of the most daring in the history of Manitou. The thieves went to the stables with the team of horses, which it is supposed they owned, and after hitching the horses to the buggy, drove off. They were seen by several persons, and Marshal Cree has a good description of them.

Both robbers are tall men and were well dressed. The stolen vehicle has a red and black body and rubber tires.

The police of this city, Denver and Pueblo have been notified to look out for the thieves.

Hotel Guests Who Are Absent-minded

"I don't know what is responsible for it, but there seem to be more absent-minded people at this hotel than any other hotel in the country," said chief clerk "Billie" Dunning, of the Antlers yesterday. And Mr. Dunning is familiar with hotel life everywhere in the United States.

"It must be the altitude," continued Mr. Dunning. "I never heard that it made people forgetful, but it's the only explanation I can find for the forgetfulness of so many of the guests at this hotel. Why, one woman actually went away one day recently and left her youngest child, a mere baby, here and the clerks had to find some one to care for it until the mother returned. She didn't admit she had forgotten it, but I guess she had.

"We have fifty one lace handkerchiefs in the office now. They have been lost by ladies who never made any inquiry for them. There is no end to the list of articles left here and forgotten by guests when they depart, and we rarely receive any word asking us to look for lost articles. Every day we find articles, many of them valuable, in different rooms after the occupants have departed."

FIRST ISSUE OF THE LABOR NEWS

The first issue of the Labor News, a Colorado Springs journal to be devoted to the interests of organized labor in this vicinity, appeared last Friday. The paper is managed by Joseph D. ... It has a neat appearance and ... half tones adorn its pages. A successful career is predicted for it. The new journal is non-partisan and its objects are stated in the leading ... as follows:

"The advent of the Colorado Springs News is for the purpose of more closely binding together those who labor for a living, and the making known to each other and to the general public their wants and claims. The News does not aim to foment strife, but by all legal means to promote harmony among the various classes of society; ... necessary to make plain the need of ... interdependence between those who produce the wealth of the world and those who distribute that wealth."

AN INTERESTING PUBLICATION

A noteworthy Colorado Springs publication is the issue of the Western Enterprise of September 21, which is a Colorado Baptist souvenir number. The paper is profusely illustrated with half-tone pictures of Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs Baptist churches for colored people and of prominent colored church workers in Colorado. It is of neat typographical appearance and carefully edited.

The Western Enterprise is published each week in Colorado Springs and has an extensive circulation. It reflects great credit upon its editors, Porter S. Simpson and Miss Mozie Robinson.

COUNTING DOTS ON SUNDAY

From the number of people counting the dots yesterday it is expected that the guesses will be coming in thick and fast this morning, and the business office of the Gazette will open early and be prepared to receive the guessers. A constant stream of Gazette readers poured into the office up until closing time Saturday night with estimates and counts on the dots, which varied several hundred between the highest and the lowest, yet each person was sure his number was correct.

It is interesting to note what schemes the guessers devise to count the dots correctly. One enterprising man secured a fine punch and carefully punched out each dot, keeping count by tens, and after pursuing this method three times he found that he had three separate results.

One man counted them over four times and obtained four different numbers. He then added the four together and took the average of the four for his guess. Another guesser got the idea that the heart-shaped figure in the center of the dotted space was the portion to be counted. He found four hundred odd dots in this portion of the puzzle and took the chance on being right.

Scores of people are bringing in their second and third guesses different from their first ones and there is less assurance as to just how many of the little dots there are than on the first day they appeared.

Each mail brings to the desk of the dot editor a score of letters from the out-of-town readers who are counting the dots. As the postmark on the envelope indicates the time of filing, it is more than likely that some of the best prizes will go to outside subscribers.

Addison Danford Died Suddenly

Addison Danford, a widely known attorney of Colorado Springs, and a long time resident of this state, died suddenly at 11 o'clock last night at his home, No. 601 North Nevada avenue. Death is supposed to have been caused by heart disease.

Mr. Danford complained yesterday afternoon that he was not feeling well, and retired early last night. He did not sleep and said that he had severe pains in the region of his heart. At 11 o'clock he got out of bed and fell to the floor. Dr. Estill was hastily summoned, but Mr. Danford was dead before the physician reached the house.

Mr. Danford is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lucy A. Danford.

Mr. Danford came to Colorado in the early '70s and in Colorado first practiced law in Lake City, over 25 years ago, when that place was a thriving mining camp. He was then a partner of Judge A. T. Gunnell, now of this city. Mr. Danford has a large circle of friends throughout the state.

NEW AUDITOR FOR THE SHORT LINE

L. F. Linney, well known in railroad circles in the west, has been appointed auditor of the Short Line to succeed E. F. Draper. Mr. Draper retains his position as secretary and assistant treasurer of the company.

The change in the financial department of the road is made because of heavy business. Mr. Draper found it impossible to handle the large amount of business in the auditor's office and attend to his other duties. Mr. Linney, the new auditor, was formerly clerk in the auditor's office of the Midland.

NEW STREET CARS DUE TO ARRIVE

Three of the new patent convertible street cars built by the Brill company of Philadelphia for the Colorado Springs & Suburban Railway company have been shipped to this city and are expected to arrive in a day or two. They will be unloaded in the Rio Grande yards and will be put into service as soon as possible.

The new cars are said to be complete in every detail. They can be used as either open or closed cars, the change from one to the other being made in only a few moments. The local company has purchased five of these convertible cars.

HARVEST FESTIVAL SALE WILL OCCUR TONIGHT

At Salvation Army barracks at 125 South Cascade avenue this evening will occur the sale of the goods that have been donated for the benefit of the Harvest Festival fund by the merchants of Colorado Springs. The sale will begin at eight o'clock and all persons interested in the work of the Salvation Army are requested to be present. The merchandise that will be disposed of at this sale is entirely new. It has been donated by the clothing, dry goods, grocery, hardware and other merchants of the city and each article will be disposed of to the highest bidder for cash.

LOCAL GROCERS MAY FORM ORGANIZATION

E. A. Stevens of St. Louis, national organizer of the Retail Grocers of the United States, and Deputy Organizer Fred Lorenz of Minneapolis, will address the retail grocers of this city, Colorado City and Manitou at the Alta Vista hotel this evening. Both gentlemen are well known to the readers of trade journals in this country.

The visitors have many matters of interest to the trade to discuss with the grocers and butchers, especially about bills to be presented to congress. They spoke to the Denver grocers Thursday night and will visit other cities in the state. They hope to start a movement which will result in the forming of a grocers' association in Colorado Springs.

J. MCK. FERRIDAY'S MARKET LETTER

Sept 28, 1901

The market has been fairly steady this week, closing strong, but with comparatively light trading. The cessation of the heavy buying which has been going on in El Paso Gold Dollar Doctor-Jack Pot and Isabella resulted in a drop from 62 to 60 in El Paso, from 70 to 18¾ in Gold Dollar, from 58 to 55 in Doctor Jack Pot and from 60 to 55¾ in Isabella. El Paso held up well under heavy pounding and it seems impossible to break it much below 60, probably because of the excellent showing in the mine. The pool or syndicate or individual as the case may be that has been responsible for the activity in the Cripple stocks above noted has ceased operations. And the theory is now given considerable credence that the heavy buying was simply an investment purchase. The coincident heavy selling is hard to account for except on the theory that it was done to hold prices until the buying orders were filled, but the manner in which the whole deal was handled, take it all together, is unexplainable. The matter remains considerable of a mystery, and it has been stated that the only thing is merely a buying and selling of stock for profit, but it is difficult to see how much profit could accrue from a buying of stock at a high figure and selling it lower. The fact of the matter probably is that some one has acquired considerable stock in the four companies named.

El Paso's continued strength is probably due to the greatly improved showing in the mine. Last month's production from the combined properties and the lease amounted to something over $[illegible]. When settlements are made on outstanding consignments of ore the El Paso company will have about $40 000 cash in the treasury. There is now but one lessee on the Company's ground at work, the El Paso company having acquired all the other leases. The Columbia lease is doing excellent work and the terms of it are enough favorable to the company to make it probable that no effort will be made to buy this lease and it will no doubt be allowed to run to its limit. A recent shipment from the lessee workings of the El Paso mine returned values of about $[illegible] per ton in 20 ton lots, and the last shipment went out returned $3 5 per ton in 20 ton lots. All this ore came from the uprise which has been started from the east level to connect with the fourth level. A winze has also been started from the fourth to meet the uprise which is being prosecuted from the sixth, and the connection will be completed within a comparatively short time. Both the uprise and the winze are in high grade ore and this ore shoot has been drifted on for nearly 400 feet, exposing a magnificent ore body of great proportions. Further than this the company has not yet reached the point where the richest ore is believed to lie, but within the next two or three days it is thought that this point will be reached and some important developments are expected.

Doctor-Jack Pot holds firm around 55, although there is no reason for its present strength. With the subterranean lake unfinished of large size and the heavy flow of water continuing with a monthly expense of about $30,000 and the mine shipping less than 400 tons per month of ore that average about an ounce and a half (or a total monthly production of about $10 000) and with less than $65 000 in the treasury, which will all be consumed within 90 days unless conditions change very radically, it is difficult to see why Doctor-Jack Pot should continue to sell at 55. Eventually the mine will be all right. It is undoubtedly a very rich piece of ground and when the lower levels are explored for the water problem has been solved we anticipate important developments. But this work will require time and money and for the next 30 or 60 days the outlook for Doctor Jack Pot is not sufficiently bright to warrant any startling advance in the price of the stock.

Argentum Juniata stockholders are apparently up against the real thing now. The rich ore shoot in the eighth level has played out the net loss for the last quarter was $17 62 99 the net loss for the fiscal year ending June 30 1901 was $21 695 87 and the company's present indebtedness amounts to about $50 000. Production now is barely enough to meet current expenses leaving nothing whatever for development work and unless development work can be prosecuted the mine is practically defunct. Therefore a stockholders meeting will probably be called to devise ways and means for carrying on the work and further exploring the resources of the ground. Everyone regrets the ill health of this old time Aspen favorite and there is no one who does not hope for better things in the future.

The future greatness of Cripple Creek is being demonstrated every day. A recent development in the lowest levels of the Gold Coin mine is of the utmost importance as showing oxidization at great depth in the mine. A lower working's rusty gold of great richness has been found and is being taken out. The other deep mines of the camp are rapidly proving the richness and abundance of Cripple Creek ore at great depth and establishing the permanency of the camp.

STATE MINING NEWS.

LEADVILLE

The operations at the Yak tunnel have been conducted so quietly during the past few years that the general public hardly realizes that it has gradually grown up to be one of the largest and most important propositions in the camp from a mining standpoint. For many years the Yak proved to be a steady drain on the pockets of the gentlemen who were back of the enterprise. In order to carry out the purpose for which the work was started it was necessary to push the breast as far into Breece hill as possible but as ore had not been opened up in large quantities these operations were very expensive. For the past year however conditions have materially changed for the better and the past six months or more have seen this enterprise placed on a solid financial basis. Large sulphide bodies of ore have been opened up which yield a heavy production the grade of most of it being above the average. In addition to the sulphide ore shipped to the lead smelters there is considerable zinc ore mined, some of which goes to Kansas while a ready market has recently been found for ore of this character at a zinc smelter in Wenona, Illinois. Several lots have been shipped to this plant with satisfactory results.

The ground along the line of the tunnel is now being developed by lessees and the output from this source is larger than at any previous time in its history. The Yak including the lessees is at present shipping 200 tons of ore per day and even this will be increased as further development proceeds. It is well equipped with a first-class plant of machinery, the power being used principally for the operation of air drills. This is obtained from water power furnished by the ditch making the operation of the plant very economical. The Yak comb nation takes in over 150 acres of the choicest ground in the silver lead district, as well as a promising area on Breece hill.

The lessees of the Nevada placer on Capitol hill, the Capitol Hill Mining company, are arranging to resume work on the ground in the near future. The tract comprises 40 acres on the west side of Harrison avenue, from Ninth ago to a depth of over 150 feet. The ago to a depth of over 100 feet. The company decided to put down a diamond drill or if the solid formation would permit, such as a churn drill which would penetrate more easily through the wash than a diamond drill. Owing to the ill success of certain of the companies that had failed to find mineral in the ro ey to carry forward the enterprise was not forthcoming and the property closed down. Another stroke of bad luck followed in the loss of a considerable portion of the machinery which was broken up and movable portions stolen by thieves, two or three of whom are now paying the penalty by terms in jail. The ase now is very good prospect that work may be resumed. Mr. Delisle, the manager of the company, has it is reported raised the necessary funds to carry out the original plans and drilling operations may be commenced some time this fall. This work is of very great importance, because it opens up an entirely new section of the down town area that has never been explored. It would be impossible to predict with the slightest degree of accuracy the character of the formation or the chances for finding ore, but there is no valid reason, as Capitol hill is one of the series of elevations which include Carbonate, Iron and Breece hills, should not be as only difference is that the outcrop does not appear.—(Herald Democrat.

SUGAR LOAF DISTRICT.

One of the most active sections of the outer rim is the Sugar Loaf district which had a good record in early days and which is likely to duplicate its performance in the future. The Pandora group is looking particularly well at the present time. Since Mr. Al Boyd and his associates have been operating under the present lease fourteen cars of ore have been shipped from the railroad switch at Granite, four of which just shipped showing 5 of an ounce gold and 32 ounces silver. Other ore of lower grade will net the mine $15 a ton. Three shafts have been started all of which are in ore while a fourth is about to be started so as to cut the vein at the most advantageous point and a good plant of machinery will be installed. The foundations for the engine and boiler are now being built and an active campaign will at once be started.

A strong combination has been formed recently on the property of the Bartlett Mining company on the same mountain for the purpose of developing the ground. It is not long on capital but strong on labor, sixteen active Swede miners having taken the lease on the ground and after working the dump for some time began taking the water out of the old shaft. This has been completed and the boys can now get into the old levels and hope to begin taking out ore in a short time. Each man chips in his share to buy powder, drills and other supplies and his labor is also added so that actual money expenses are reduced to a minimum. With sixteen good men on the property all of them interested in its success, good results ought to follow. This is the kind of mining—that makes a camp prosperous.

Another set of lessees have started up the Gunnison and are taking out the water so as to reach the old levels. This property was worked very successfully a few years ago by Mr. Boyd the ore being highly silicious but of a good grade of silver.

James McNeece has two plants on the Tiger and General Shields and is already sacking up some good ore.

Parker brothers on the Lady Loftus have cleaned out the old 900 foot tunnel and then drove it 33 feet further disclosing a vein of good ore which will be shipped at once.

The McLaugh in boys are working the New Discovery property near the Dinero having started a new shaft to cut a known vein. They have been very successful in their operations on Sugar Loaf having taken out a lot of high grade ore from the Red Hook.

The Dinero lessees are now taking out some high grade ore and making surface improvements that will greatly increase the facilities for the handling of the ore. It will be remembered that in sinking the old shaft a fine body of ore was encountered carrying [illegible] values.—(Herald Democrat.

SAN JUAN DISTRICT.

The Contendon Mining company Geo. I. Collins, manager, having recently purchased the North Star group of mines on Solomon mountain is building extensive works above Silverton on the [illegible] where it will pick up the old property and putting it on its feet as it deserves. A 140 ton mill is to be put up about 15 000 feet of tramway strung, and other extensive improvements made. The old mine has been a great silver producer in the past and its depths are said to yet contain immense bodies of ore carrying silver, copper and gold. Its great dump and ore reserves can be mined and milled at a profit if it is handled economically, and extensively and these equipments appear to be a necessary feature in their successful operation. At the lower mine a large boarding and bunk house together with several other buildings, have already been completed and the mill will be put up and equipped without delay. Side tracks will be put in and the enterprise [illegible] along the line [illegible] ample capital and the wealth of old Silverton to draw upon when in full swing it will give employment to 100 men and handle that many tons of ore daily.

A large amount of work is being done on Sultan mountain. The Hercules Consolidated and other interests managed by Thomas B. Kane, are cutting a broad [illegible] equipped 35 ton mill, great compressor plant, well appointed offices and other buildings, render the extensive property one of the most valuable in the county. There are probably two miles of development and a dozen productive veins have been cut in the openings. Among the improvements not enumerated, are a flume conveying an ample volume of water to two turbine wheels, surface tramway, electric lighting, convenient railway facilities and other valuable interests. It is not only an extensive enterprise already but it is growing greater with every click of the drill.—(Silverton Miner.

CONEJOS COUNTY

Although there is no boom on at Platoro steady development upon a number of claims progresses. The most important and at the same time most profitable work being done in the camp is that of Messrs. Shepard and Kutzleb who have a lease on the Ida May mine. Last month they made a shipment of ore which they took out of the mine during the three months preceding, netting them something over $1 100. It is thought they will do still better the next three months.

A number of persons principally from Monte Vista have located over 1 000 acres of oil lands along the Conejos river above Platoro. There are splendid indications of oil on these claims and it is confidently expected that a good flow of petroleum will be encountered when a well is bored.—Monte Vista Journal.

CREEDE DISTRICT

The Big Kanawha mill building is almost ready to receive the machinery. The four lower floors are now ready and the two next floors are about completed, while all the [illegible] frame work is up and ready for the siding and roof. Another week will probably see the entire building enclosed with the exception of the boiler room which is being built on the north side of the main mill building. While the machinery is being put in the flume to carry the water from the mouth of the Nelson tunnel to the mill will be built. Three more weeks will probably see the mill ready for work.

Another carload of machinery for the American Sulphur & Mining company is reported to have arrived Monday and has been conveyed to the mine where specialists are now erecting the plant. This company has already spent over $40 000 on the property in machinery and improvements and the plans they have outlayed to be completed before this time next year require the expenditure of over $[illegible] 000. It is without the least doubt one of the most beneficial companies to our county that has ever invested here. They possess the capital and are freely investing it in a proposition that no one else would tackle. These sulphurets are a proposition that requires an immense amount of capital to put them in condition before any returns can be expected and we are glad to see this company take hold of them and especially in the manner in which they are and if they have the good will and best wishes of every citizen who is interested in the welfare of our county.—(Creede Candle.

GUNNISON COUNTY

The Silent Friend and Mackenzie properties have passed into the hands of the Colorado Smelting and Mining company. The former group was sold last week and the latter this week. The exact consideration is not known. The Silent Friend was located in the early days and has produced a large tonnage of ore. It is being operated now under lease and the lessees have a good body of mineral in sight. The Mackenzie joins the Maid of Athena and Citizens mines in the Mineral Farm basin and the workings consist of a 100-foot shaft. Owing to the change of ownership of the first named property an esteemed exchange says that they believe that the Colorado Smelting and Mining company intends to control this entire district. We can state authoritatively that such is not the case and that the purchasing of claims by them has been comparatively limited.—(Pitkin Miner.

CRESTONE DISTRICT

Next Monday the whistle will blow at the above mine and a force of 10 men will start to work. This property has been idle all summer but now under the personal management of L. N. Hills work will be pushed rapidly. The entire force will endeavor to get the large new [illegible] to run through their property and are now in good ore. The mill will be started just as soon as enough ore can be got out. Inside of the next 60 days we hope to have a glowing account from the San Isabel.

Down on the grant everything is bustle and activity. [illegible] will look like old times. Their new machinery has not arrived yet, but 20 miners will be put to work the first of the month which with the force of men now employed will make a force of 70 miners. Some very fine ore has been found in the 85-foot level.—(Crestonean.

CHAFFEE COUNTY

The mineral conditions of the Vivandiere at the 600-foot level were such that the management felt fully justified in sinking another hundred feet before commencing the work of running levels and stoping. On Tuesday the shaft was 500 feet deep. Below the 500-foot station it has been in the vein and ore of an excellent quality and improving in quality and strength has been taken out. Since the strike at about 250 feet the ore conditions have improved with depth. The management feels warranted in saying that when the 600-foot level is reached they will have fully 200 feet of stoping ground. At that point the present plant will have accomplished the purpose for which it was intended and the company will replace it with a plant of sufficient power and all the modern appliances for extensive mining.

Arrangements have been made for regular shipments which will commence with a shipment of four cars within a week.

The Vivandiere company is to be congratulated upon the success with which it is meeting. It is eminently merited.

Reports from the Independence contingent to be of a most satisfactory nature. The shaft is now about 120 feet deep and [illegible] and a half carloads of fine copper ore are ready for shipment and will be shipped as soon as cars can be obtained or if no cars can be had at Hecla the ore will be hauled to Buena Vista in wagons. Besides the ore now ready for shipment two wagon loads have been delivered to Buena Vista. Returns from the first showed the [illegible] to be a paying proposition.

Camp Summit a part of the Monarch district is coming to the front again with developments in many of the old properties and new discoveries by prospectors. The outlook is for a very general activity within the coming year and a resuscitation of the old camp.

Quite an excitement was occasioned a few days since by a strike made by J. F. Herzinger on Mt. Aetna near the Columbus mine. Mr. Herzinger had found some very fine float and was sure that there must be a rich lead not very far away. He invested a considerable amount of grit and muscle in the enterprise and was rewarded by uncovering what seems to be one of the best finds ever made on the mountain.

The ore is of an iron character carrying values in gold, silver and lead. A ten-foot shaft was sunk at the point of discovery and the vein exposed for some distance on the surface. At ten feet there is a streak 18 inches wide composed of white, yellow and brown talc. At first glance one who knows the character of the Columbus ore would be ready to locate his claim from that property.—(Salida Record.

ELDORA DISTRICT.

A large force of men have been put to work on the Idaho gold mine on South Sugar Loaf mountain and preparations are about complete for sinking the shaft to 1 000 feet. The property is now controlled by Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek parties.

The tunnel on the Rosalind group is now in 300 feet. Manager Hughes states that the tunnel will probably cut the Arizona vein at the 450-foot point and at 600 feet the Rosalind vein will be encountered opening up a large body of ore. Recently a 20-foot vein was [illegible] from which showed an average value of $[illegible].—(Eldora Miner.

A ROCKY MOUNTAIN ELK.

GOOD PROGRESS BEING MADE ON THE NEW PARK FOR COLORADO SPRINGS

Out at the end of the Cheyenne car line is a broad wooded valley through which a mountain brook murmurs in ceaseless monotone. The trees here, unlike the scraggy growth farther up the mountain, attain a good size and are luxuriantly leafed and fairly peopled with blue-jays, orioles and the modest, sweet-voiced brown thrushes. The shelter of the valley invites all kinds of life and the timid little denizens of the forest fairly revel in happiness here. It is a wild place, but cultured with the grace and beauty in which nature loves to disport herself when in a mild gentle mood.

The entire valley along here has been indefinitely known as Camp Harding. A portion of it, about one hundred and twenty acres or more, has been fenced in recently. This part is the garden spot of the entire valley. It is called Dixon park, and this is the park which W. S. Stratton is preparing to delight the people of Colorado Springs and the thousands from all over the world who annually make a summer pilgrimage to Colorado. The park will be a gift to the people, all the enjoyments and pleasures which the place will bestow will be as free as the air and sunshine.

For the past six or eight weeks a force of over 20 men has been at work clearing the underbrush, removing old dead trees, trimming up the scraggy ones, and in other ways encouraging the work which nature is doing. Already, the improved condition of this natural park is a delight to the eye. The small scrub oak trees have been trimmed and cleared of a rubbish growth, and by care and a little artificial stimulus, it is confidently thought that these trees can be coaxed to attain a considerable size. They may not ever become the giant, wide-spreading oak, but they will make a good leafy shade and that is ambition enough for them. A clump of these trees on a gently sloping knoll, every tree carefully trimmed and the soft grass cleaned of all harsh growth of bush and brier, is a pretty sight indeed, especially now when every leaf has been transmuted by the great alchemist into gold and bronze and copper-of-most-wondrous-beauty.

There is a fine growth of aspen, yellow willow, mountain ash, wild cherry and plum, some cottonwood, and a great deal of pine and cedar. Many of the trees are draped and festooned with clinging vines, in the most gorgeous colors imaginable. The ground is carpeted with soft tender grass, in which here and there the wild strawberry breaks the tufty green and flowers splash their pretty colors all summer, through, long after Jack Frost has squelched the blooms farther up the mountain. Permeating every part of the park is the smelly balsam of the odor of spruce and pine which town and, city bred person loves to inhale in long, deep draughts. Facing the park, and sheltering it, is glorious old Cheyenne mountain standing there like a sentinel of all the ages and looking down from its verdure-covered heights in tolerant patience at the fitful changes which time and man have wrought.

So much now for the natural part of the park, and this is an abundance indeed. The western people surrounded by all kinds of lavish beauties in nature, are apt to become blase to the treat which is ours every day in the year, and sigh for a greater superfluity. Travelers come to us from Italy and tell us of the wondrous azure blue of our skies. From the famed Alpian Switzerland others come here, and after gazing in rapture on our mountains, they tell us with buoyant enthusiasm, of the picturesque splendors of the heights and depth of our Rockies. Perhaps to show proper appreciation we ought to be in a constant state of ecstasy but we would probably get out of breath and this comes high in these parts.

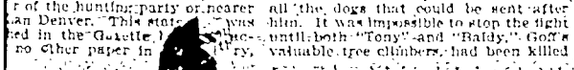

So much again for the natural advantages of Dixon park. It is sometimes said that nature cannot be improved upon, but Mr. Stratton has set to work to prove the fallacy of this.

The most conspicuous addition to this park is a lake which is being put in the eastern part. The land here is boggy and full of springs and what with the water from Cheyenne creek, an artificial lake is easily constructed. A large force of men is at work here deepening the bed of the lake and by the time the creek is ice-bound, the lake will be in fine shape for skating. In the summer, row-boats will be stationed here. A large pavilion to accommodate about 2,000 people or more will be erected there. In case of storm or rain, the pavilion will afford ample shelter. An orchestra or brass band will be here to supply music during the busy summer months. The stream that flows through here will be spanned by a dozen or more rustic bridges and all over the park rustic seats will be provided.

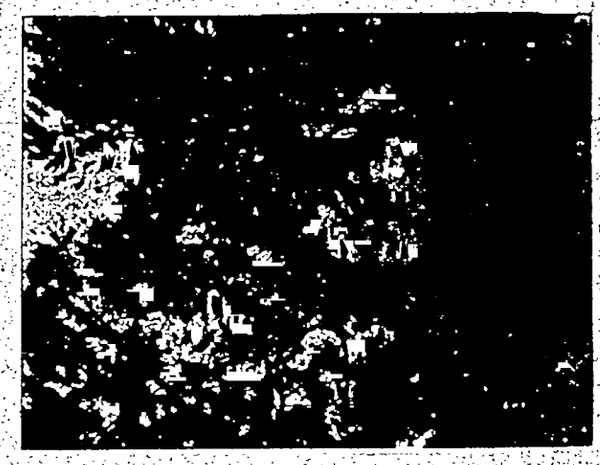

A large, but hitherto unknown iron spring, will be walled up and fixed in such shape that water can be conveniently dipped up. The water of the spring is just like that of the famed Iron springs at Manitou and this alone will attract hundreds of people to the park. A road that winds along the course of the stream is being constructed through the park. For the fortunate owners of horses and traps this will be one of the finest drives in this part of the west. All the surroundings are ideally picturesque and there seems to be nothing lacking, either in nature or art, to make this plot of forest land a gem of a park. Either for the children or their parents, it is a playground where one can dream away many delightful hours of fine enjoyment.

"Boxer" is the dog shown in the picture of a dog lying on the ground. "Boxer" has been one of Goff's best dogs for more than ten years, during which time he has been in at the killing of more than 300 lions. Goff regards "Boxer" as the best lion trailer that he ever had.

Andrew Jackson's Marriage.

In the October "New" Lippincott's there is an entertaining paper by Anne Hollingsworth Wharton about early days in Washington. Of General Jackson's marriage to Mrs. Robards she writes as follows:

"It is not our purpose here to discuss the propriety or impropriety of Jackson's marriage with a divorcee. His carelessness in not thoroughly investigating the legal bearings of the case is absolutely unpardonable. There was really no law of divorce in Virginia at this time. The legislature of Virginia passed an act authorizing the supreme court of Kentucky to try the case with a jury. Robards took no action for two years. Two or three years after their marriage, upon hearing of the final action of the court of quarter sessions of Mercer county, Kentucky, in granting a divorce, Jackson and Mrs. Robards were married again. The circumstances of the marriage were such, says Mrs. Sumner, as to provoke scandal at the time, and the scandal, which in the case of a more obscure man would have died out during thirty years of honorable wedlock, came up over and over again during Jackson's career. It is plain that Jackson himself was to blame for contracting a marriage under ambiguous circumstances, and for not protecting his wife's honor by precautions, such as finding out the exact terms of the act of the legislature of Virginia. . . . Having put her in a false position against which, as a man and a lawyer, he should have protected her, he was afterwards led by his education and the current ways of thinking in the society about him to try to heal the defects of his marriage certificate by shooting any man who dared to state the truth, that said certificate was irregular."

A Remarkable Vitality.

Few children's classics have had a broader circulation or shown a greater vitality than Mary Mapes Dodge's delightful story of Holland, entitled "Hans Brinker or the Silver Skate." Year after year, irrespective of fads and fashions, and in spite of the constant appearance of new popular favorites the sale of "Hans Brinker" goes steadily on. This has been its history for the 26 years that have elapsed since its first publication, and the yearly sales now are greater than the sales of many new books that are much talked about in print and otherwise. In fact, the years bring scarcely a diminution in the sales, and every once in awhile, without apparent reason, there is a sudden considerable augment to the demand.

And now the Scribners, who publish this popular story, are cutting $1 off the price of their New Amsterdam edition in order to give it a still wider circulation. This brings it down to the price of an ordinary novel, while it retains Allen B. Doggett's 100 illustrations. It will be interesting to see what effect so radical a cut will have in the sales of a book with such a history.

Russia Opening a Vast Grain Area.

The Transsiberian road has been engineered so that it runs through the richest part of the territory. The name Siberia stands for all the Asiatic dominions of Russia except Trancaucasia, Transcaspia and Turkestan. It is at present divided into the following provinces: 1. Western Siberia, including the governments of Tobolsk and Tomsk, in the basin of the Ob. Its area is 42,000 square geographic miles. The southern part of the regions, lying immediately east of the Urals, stretches far south toward the Khirgiz Steppe Borderland and the region known as Barabe. Over as large as Japan this Western plain is composed of earth, and has scarcely a rock. This black earth, of chernozlom, is real treasure of Siberia, and the western plain the granary of Wheat, rye, oats and barley in large quantities; crops of were reaped last year. The that militate against the crops a late frosts and the want of snow winter. But, when I rode through the wheat fields a few weeks ago in June the land seemed as rich and prosperous as Dakota. For hundreds of miles even up as far north as Tobolsk, at 59 degrees, I saw nothing but grain fields growing green. Winter wheat is sown in the south, but spring wheat is sown from April 10. Frosts in the wheat area generally begin in September. The land is tilled by the fallow-land system, that is, one section is sown without fertilizing for ten years, and then allowed to lie fallow for ten years.—(The Rev. Peter MacQueen in Leslie's Weekly.

A GARFIELD COUNTY PIONEER.

Captain Joseph M. Watson is a native of Connecticut. He served credit in the civil war as captain of Co. H, 21st Iowa infantry, and came after the war, engaging in mining in Colorado and Utah. He settled in county soon after the opening of the Ute Indian reservation and known throughout the state.

CONTESTANTS: The Gazette upon receipt of Ten Cents will send at the close of the contest a diagram or key of the above puzzle so constructed as to prove the correct answer to the satisfaction of all contestants.

FROM THE SIDE LINES

In the light of the games played in the state on Saturday, the college football situation in Colorado changes somewhat.

Colorado college showed up poorly all around as was expected This team's standing has not been raised or lowered Ewing has to develop a line out of green men. This was known before Saturday and was merely emphasized by Saturday's game Golden Boulder and Fort Collins however do not look as formidable as they did before Saturday's games

Golden had much the same trouble that the college had Her men were not in shape The East Denver High school had team work and although the Miners were 20 pounds heavier on an average the scholastics tore through the line with comparative ease Golden has had a week the better of Colorado college on practice and it was supposed that she had developed considerable team work This seems to have been a supposition contrary to fact The Festival of Mountain and Plain in Denver will spoil this week the Miners and Coach Dudley does not expect to get any work out of his men this week. One week's cessation of practice and relaxation of training rules will throw the Golden team back more than a week in development and it will be like starting all over again Still with seasoned men and heavy weights among the new men Golden should stand close to the pennant on Thanksgiving day

Boulder had an alumni team against her There were good men among the alumni, but it was largely an all star team and the varsity's team work should have shown up to greater advantage. Boulder is of medium weight this year and her strength will be quickness Folsom is trying to develop a fast team He has had a week the better of Ewing but it does not seem to have done any more than the Colorado college coach The Denver festival will doubtless cut into Boulder's practice this week and Folsom will not be able to accomplish much before next Saturday Boulder is having hard luck again Another player was hurt on Saturday and probably will not get around in time for any games this season.

Fort Collins was the surprise of the day The Aggies alone succumbed to the latter playing of a preparatory school All reports agreed that the Boulder Preps won deservedly and the Aggies must start the season with an acknowledged defeat The Reverend Mr Toomey of Summerville has not got such a terrible hard after all Dibble and Griffith were the mainstay of the all star aggregation White is one of the new men Toomey ... enrolled among the farmers when ... opened or soon after He seems ... a prize It is said he played with ... W C a season or so Where he ... given out for publication Toomey ... heavy team He has the best ... he could get together, and he knows a good man when he sees him too Toomey used to have fine oratorical powers when he was studying at the Denver university divinity school and also while he was holding forth down at Summerville Judging from the number of good men he was persuaded to take an agricultural course this year it would seem that his lungs are holding out But Toomey does not appear to have created team work into his aggregation as yet It can scarcely be said that his material is green Most of it is well seasoned With the material in Fort Collins this year Toomey ought to be able to defeat all the college teams, regardless of who wins the pennant But if the Aggies finish one two three the ll have to do better than they did on Saturday

By Saturday next Colorado college and Fort Collins ought to be much stronger These institutions will not be affected much by the big carnival in Denver and both should get in some good hard practice Roberts one of last year's team is due to arrive at Colorado college this week He will strengthen the line Ewing will have to pound nerve and science into the other men who are to make up the line The back field is easily as strong as any in the state The season is young yet The team may yet develop into strong fo... All the college teams will be light this year and nerve and spirit will be the winning factors

A mass meeting of the students of the college will be held after chapel this morning It will be in the interests of the football team and it will probably result in better support for the college team Thus far the football men have had little support from the rest of the student body A handful of students and about twice as many townspeople have attended the practices while about the same persons saw Saturday's game Hec

ANOTHER WONDER OF SCIENCE

Biology Has Proved that Dandruff Is Caused by a Germ.

Science is doing wonders these days in medicine as well as in mechanics ... has been troubled with dandruff for which no hair preparation has heretofore proved a successful cure until Newbro's Herpicide was put on the market. It is a scientific preparation that kills the germ that makes dandruff or scurf by digging into the scalp to get at the root of the hair where it saps the vitality causing itching scalp falling hair and finally baldness Without dandruff hair must grow luxuriantly Herpicide at all druggists It is the only destroyer of dandruff.

'THE CONVICT'S DAUGHTER.'

Condemned to life imprisonment for a murder he did not commit a noble natured Weary Willie escapes from jail only to face a venomous villain, who seeks the hand of the adopted daughter of Col Gould, a wealthy Kentucky banker It is a fight between conscience and lying Being a hobo he is forced by threats and bribery to accept the villain's offer or return to the jail. So he swears to a falsehood as he thinks that he is the father of the girl whose spurned—love the villain seeks. But the villain's triumph does not last long A little later his tool learns the true history of the girl through a letter from his dead wife that is found in a bible It proves that he is the real father of the girl Again the villain enmeshes him and threatens to send him back to a life of torture between prison walls He revolts at the thought of betraying himself but to protect the good name of his daughter who is in love with an honorable young man he sacrifices his noble nature by swearing that she is not his daughter and goes back to prison But time evens things up between the villain and hobo —The latter escapes gets a pardon the confession of the real murderer who leaves him all his property making him a rich man sees the villain banished his daughter and her lover made happy

This briefly is the story of 'The Convict's Daughter' to be presented at the Opera house on Wednesday evening

COPPER WAS KEYNOTE OF LONDON SITUATION

By Associated Press.

London Sept 29— The London stock exchange says the Financial critic of the Sunday Special has become so Americanized that I can scarcely refer to any but the American market The others hardly exist.

All the authorities agree that the key note of the financial situation last week was the copper position Even West Africans Rands and West Australians fluctuated in sentimental harmony with the American market ... in consequence of the varying light thrown upon the Anaconda failure to pay the expected dividend

One of the ablest experts draws attention to the utter lack of sense of proportion which Europe especially Paris has exhibited by nearly going panic stricken over such an apparently incidental affair as the copper matter

He points out that this serious state which existed during the week was due to a belief very generally held in Germany and France that the inability of the Anaconda people to meet expectations was only the premonitory symptom of the collapse of all amalgamations of capital interests in the United States the extent and methods of which have always passed the understanding of the old world financiers It was several days before it recognized the falsity of such deductions

The favorable American railroad news helped to gradual recoveries not only in the American ... around and while the closing prices were generally below those that marked the opening of the week a better feeling prevailed

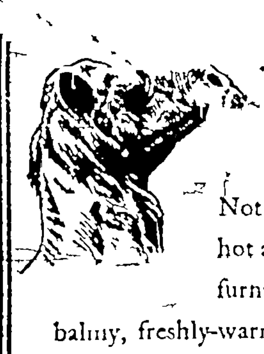

With business quiet all sorts of rumors are rife regarding the intentions of the Amalgamated company the one most in favor of that of reduction of the dividends was due to a plan of the managers to compel the other companies notably Rio Tintos and Calumet, to join hands with the Amalgamated in curtailing the copper supply of the world

BOARD OF BREVETS TO MEET TODAY

By Associated Press.

Washington Sept 29—Adjutant General Corbin announces that the board of brevets recently appointed to meet at the war department Monday would devote its attention solely to the cases of officers and enlisted men who specially distinguished themselves in the campaigns in China and in the Philippines. It will have nothing to do with respect to the case of officers who rendered special service in the West Indian campaign

The latter class of cases was disposed of by a similar board which concluded its sessions over a year ago While the fact that a brevet had been recommended to congress for Colonel Roosevelt was published at the time the nominations were sent to the senate it appears that the fact that there were two separate recommendations and the exact basis for the board's action were not made public Therefore the adjutant general today furnished these transcripts from the proceedings of the board

"Lieut Colonel Roosevelt, First U S Volunteer cavalry to be brevetted colonel United States volunteers for gallantry in battle Las Guyamas Cuba, June 24 1898

"For gallantry in battle Santiago de Cuba, July 1 1898 Lieut Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, to be breveted brigadier general"

TWO ARRESTS ON SERIOUS CHARGES

M. P. Rogers Charged With Embezzlement of Funds of Employers---Henry Pfost Accused of Stealing Tents.

After being watched by private detectives for over a month M. P. Rogers and Henry Pfost, employes of the Baxter-Kerns Mercantile company, were arrested last evening, one accused of embezzlement and the other of larceny. Rogers is said to have appropriated money belonging to the company to his own use and Pfost is said to have stolen several tents from the Short Line yards several months ago. He is also believed to have knowledge of Rogers' alleged peculations.

Rogers, who is a young man and married, came to this city about six months ago from Rocky Ford, where he had been employed as shipping clerk in a sugar refinery. He was given a similar position by the Baxter-Kerns company. About two months ago his employers noticed discrepancies in the accounts in Rogers' department and an investigation was begun. Two private detectives watched Rogers for over a month, and it is said they have evidence to show that the young man made cash sales of goods and pocketed the money without making any returns of the sales.

Pfost is also a young man. He has been employed by the Baxter-Kerns company for three months as a driver. The detectives who were watching Rogers thought Pfost was implicated in the alleged embezzlements but could get no evidence against him. They say, however, that he stole several tents from the Short Line yards three or four months ago. He was formerly employed by the railroad company.

Informations were filed in the district court yesterday afternoon against the two men and capiases were placed in the hands of Under Sheriff Fitts for their arrest. The officer took them into custody at their place of employment. The prisoners were lodged in the county jail.

WILL GET BIDS FOR TOP WORK

Superstructure of the Y. M. C. A. to Be Built at Once---Several Gifts Received.

At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. directors yesterday, C. P. Barber, architect for the new building, was authorized to advertise immediately for bids for the superstructure. This part of the building will be of buff brick and the material will be made of clay from this vicinity. Samples of brick made from clay here-about were submitted to the directors and proved satisfactory.

Another gift of $1,000 to the association's building fund was announced. Gift of $5 from a college student who is earning his way through college by caring for furnaces was also acknowledged.

A communication was received from Professor Akers, organist at Grace Episcopal church, offering to get up a musical entertainment for the benefit of the building fund. The suggestion was accepted and a committee of arrangements will be named later. The entertainment will be given in December.

A special car will be provided by the Rio Grande railroad for the Denver and Colorado Springs delegates to the Y. M. C. A. state convention at Canon City. The local delegates will leave here Friday morning and will return Monday. Among those who will attend the convention are Mayor Robinson, Professor Imbert, W. H. Day, Ivan Schuyler, Walter C. Wright, H. R. Chapman, Dr. McClanahan, J. W. Isham and C. C. Owen. All young men are invited to attend the convention. The railroad fare will be cheap and board at Canon City will not be expensive.

Cases Set for October Term

The civil docket was called in the district court yesterday by Judge Cunningham, and the cases for the term were set for trial. A number of motions were heard but no cases were definitely disposed of. Civil cases were set for trial as follows:

Oct. 2—A. S. Munson vs. D. T. Mason.

Oct. 3—Arthur Cromwell vs. D. and R. G. railroad.

Oct. 4—John Boyd vs. Richardson and Storr et al.; George Bateman vs. J. G. Hiestand.

Nov. 22—Johann Peters vs. Gus Stulinsky.

Nov. 26—McDonald, administrator, vs. Wirt; Houston Lumber company vs. Robinson, et al.

In the county court one of the many suits resulting from the big fire of October 1, 1898, was filed. H. Purcell and Mrs. H. Purcell are complainants against the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad company, demanding $1,000 damages for goods destroyed by the fire.

New Plant Ready Within Six Months

Work is progressing rapidly on the construction of the plant of the Telluride Reduction company, on the Hobbs tract of land between Colorado Springs and Colorado City. It is expected that the works will be ready for operation within six months.

The new plant will be the first bromination reduction works in this country, although plants of this kind have proven successful for the treatment of low grade ore in Australia. H. W. Fullerton, president of the company, and other New York capitalists are interested in the enterprise.

At the outstart the new plant will probably have a capacity of 350 tons a day, and it is the intention of the promoters to increase the capacity. The plans for the plant include a two-story brick office building.

The company has asked the county commissioners to build a bridge across Fountain creek near the Midland shops, and Commissioners Fairall and Greenway visited the place yesterday morning. The construction of the bridge will probably be authorized.

Pleads Not Guilty and Goes to Jail

J. W. McCullough, alias Thomas Sayer, who was arrested in Denver for the alleged robbery of $500 worth of jewelry and other articles from the residence of J. M. Parker, in this city, was arraigned before Justice Wing yesterday afternoon. He pleaded not guilty and was taken to the county jail in default of $1,000 bail pending a hearing October 5.

The police say they have evidence to show that McCullough has been implicated in at least three more daylight robberies in Colorado Springs. When he was caught by the Denver detectives the accused man had in his possession some of the articles stolen from Mr. Parker's home and other goods believed to have been stolen elsewhere. The local police are trying to trace the ownership of some of these articles. McCullough is well-known here, having been interested in the Progress Printing company, which had its offices in the Midland block. The police believe that if he is guilty of the charges made against him he had accomplices.

Realty Deal in Business District

Perkins, Morton & Co. consummated a large realty transfer yesterday. It was the sale of the property at 27 North Tejon street, from Mrs. Sally A. Hull to E. T. Sanders and Henry A. Wattson. The price paid was $25,000. The property is one lot 25x100 and a two-story brick storehouse now occupied by D. Craigue. At this valuation the property is worth almost $1,000 per front foot. Some idea of the value of business property may be deduced from this. It is a satisfying reflection on the condition of Colorado Springs when land sells at such a figure. Fine property will be improved and more floor space added to the second story.

Smith Gets Time to Pay for Fun

Walter Smith, the negro who raised "rough house" in Santa Fe row several nights ago, was tried in police court yesterday on a charge of disturbance. He was assessed $35, and costs and was sent back to jail to remain a little more. Smith is the negro who had a shooting scrape with one Jones, another negro, some time ago. He did not prove a very good shot at that time but has demonstrated his ability to raise a first-class "rough house" when he himself is "shot."

A carpenter by the name of Culbertson has asked the police to help him find his tools, he says, were stolen from him on Sunday. Culbertson is working on the new Morris house, 1115 South Nevada, and he is in the habit of leaving his tools in a chest in the house. Some one crawled through a window and took the pick of the lot out of the chest and failed to leave the address where they might be called for. Culbertson says his loss is about $15.

George W. Benson is in jail on a charge of drunkenness. He will be tried this morning.

The Danford Funeral to Occur Tomorrow

The funeral of Addison Danford, who died suddenly Sunday night, will take place tomorrow. Services will be held at his late residence, No. 601 North Nevada avenue, at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Danford was one of the most remarkable characters in Colorado. He was widely known throughout the state for his amiability and his oratory. He was born at Meredith Bridge, N. H., on July 4, 1829, being in his 73d year at the time of his death. In 1838 he went with his family to Geneva, Kane county, Ill. He lived in Illinois for a number of years, being graduated from the medical college at [illegible] when he was 20 years old. For a while he practiced medicine and engaged in mercantile pursuits and in 1855 emigrated to Linn county, Kan., where he studied law and was admitted to the bar. He was a member of the first legislature of Kansas in 1858. In 1861 he went to Washington where he was mustered into the regular army and was detailed as a member of the guard of President Lincoln. He later returned to Kansas and in 1868 was chosen attorney general of the state.

In the early '70s he came to Colorado Springs, where he practiced law and for a while was city attorney. When the Lake county mining excitement broke out he went with other lawyers from this city to that vicinity and for a while was law partner of Judge A. T. Gunnell, now of this city. Mr. Danford spent much of his time in Leadville, and did not return to Colorado Springs until nine years ago, after the Cripple Creek discoveries. He was held in high esteem in this city.

Mr. Danford was a member of Rising Sun lodge No. 8, A. F. & A. M. The Masons will have charge of his funeral.

Denver Carnival Is Drawing the People

From yesterday's sale of tickets at the local railroad offices it is evident that a large number of Colorado Springs people will attend the Festival of Mountain and Plain in Denver. Over 400 persons left this city yesterday for the Queen city, and as the celebration does not begin until today a good many more persons from Colorado Springs will enjoy the merrymaking. The Rio Grande, Colorado & Southern and Santa Fe lines are selling excursion tickets at the rate of one fare for the round trip.

The Midland band will leave this morning for Denver and will not return until Thursday. The band will head the big historical and industrial procession this afternoon, and the floats built by the Quarto-centennial association of this city will have places of honor in the parade. A large number of business men will go from this city to Denver this morning to see the parade.

Rocky Mt. Hotel Men Form Association

The Rocky Mountain Hotel Men's association was organized a few days ago. It is a union of all the hotel men in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and New Mexico. The movement is fostered by such well known men as J. D. Fanning of the Albany hotel, Denver, Henry Marucchi and W. S. Dunning of the Antlers, George S. Elston of the Alamo, E. E. Nichols of the Cliff, Manitou, N. Tabor of the Brown Palace, Denver, W. W. Atkinson of the Plaza, and others as prominent.

The object of the association is to agitate for legislation favorable to hotel proprietors, as under the present regulations there are many discriminations against them. The subject of regulating the employes and putting them on some sort of merit basis, the same as the railroads and other large concerns, is another one of the principal objects of the association.

The association will soon become one of the strongest factors in labor organizations in the state. Up to date not all of the hotel men have joined, but it is expected that so soon as the matter will be laid before them, they will affiliate with the association. The following gentlemen, representing the best known hotel men in the state have already joined and are promoting the movement:

N. M. Tabor, J. D. Fanning, Henry Marucchi, W. S. Dunning, George S. Elston, E. E. Nichols, Jr., W. W. Atkinson, Addison Lowry, Dr. F. M. Cooper, S. D. Johnson, J. M. Ward, J. B. Laughlin, J. A. Ray, C. W. Barker, D. A. Tunnell, Thomas Gough, D. K. Torrey, C. W. Martin, John E. Mayo, Byron N. Himebaugh, John A. Himebaugh, Edward Davis, H. H. Hake, C. H. Morse, J. A. Wiggin and J. T. Todd.

HEIRESS TO A LARGE FORTUNE

The friends in Colorado Springs of Miss M. Belknap of Kansas City, who spent part of the past summer in Colorado Springs and Manitou, are pleased to hear of her good fortune. Her uncle, P. J. Neffer of Cincinnati, Ohio, a large stockholder of Pennsylvania coal mines and oil stocks, recently died, leaving her sole heir to his large fortune, which is estimated between two and three hundred thousand dollars. After the first of the year she will make her home in Cincinnati.

THE SEPTEMBER OUTPUT

Two Days Shutdown Caused Slight Falling Off--Total Valuation $2,144,800.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Sept. 30.—The output for the Cripple Creek district for the month of September amounts to 50,400 tons of ore shipped with a gross value of $2,144,800. The record is slightly less than that of August, although there is no material decrease. The palpable reason for this is that there were two off days during this month, none of the mines working on Labor day and there was a more or less general shutdown on the day of President McKinley's funeral. The average grade of the ore treated by some of the plants shows an improvement which, although it is slight, is a good indication, as it would be naturally expected that the grade should become lower in time. The Economic mill made the biggest run in its history, the total clean-up for the month amounting to $135,000. The Colorado-Philadelphia and Standard plants of Colorado City treated a heavy tonnage of ore on account of the Metallic and Union plants of the syndicate at Florence being closed down. It is understood that these two mills are to be started up within the next week or 10 days, the Metallic mill having been improved at a cost of $40,000, new concentration tables having been put in, making it possible to treat a very low grade of ore. The capacity of the plant is now rated at from 400 to 500 tons daily. A sum of money a little larger than that put into the Metallic improvements has been expended on the Union mill, and when this reduction works starts up it will be improved in every possible way and have a capacity of treating [illegible] tons of ore daily. The figures for September as furnished by the different plants are as follows:

Plant.	Tons.	Value.	Total.
Colo.-Philadelphia-Standard	21,000	[illegible]	$ 672,000
Economic	4,500	[illegible]	135,000
Dorcas	2,300	25	57,500
Smelters and Miscellaneous	22,000	61	1,280,300
Grand total	50,400		$2,144,800

The Short Line is hauling a great deal of ore from the different mines in the camp to the sampling works and also from the sampling works to the mills at Colorado City. Possibly the best of the business is over the spur from Bull hill to Battle mountain, including the Last Dollar, Portland and Independence. While a large tonnage of the Last Dollar ore goes to the smeltery, the output from Stratton's Independence and the Portland has been increased since the connection was made. On Saturday 12 carloads of ore were shipped from the Independence by the company and the different lessees who are working over the dump.

The Short Line is rapidly completing its grade over the Strong mine dump, and shortly the erection of the depot at Victor will be commenced.

Lessee George Bent, operating the main workings of the Red Spruce company's property, adjoining the Pointer on Gold hill, has received returns on the trial shipment sent out by him last week. Five tons of the consignment returned values of $23 in gold to the ton, while three tons of the ore went $18 per ton. The mineral is from both levels of the mine at the 150 and 250-foot depth. Sinking will be commenced to put the shaft down to 350 feet on Wednesday morning.

WORK GOES ON JUST THE SAME

In Spite of Apparent Business Dullness Cripple Creek Is More Active Than Ever--Mr. Rittenhouse's Views on Leasing.

Brokerage circles both in this city and in Cripple Creek are complaining of the lightness of the stock market, and when the complaining mood is uppermost they are always ready to attribute the quietness in business circles to the mines themselves, but all reports which are coming from camp are to the effect that the activity there is better than it has been for months. Mr. E. E. Rittenhouse of the Dorsey Investment company, returned yesterday from a two days' visit to the camp and is very cheerful in speaking of conditions.

"It is true," he said, "that things looked dull in Cripple Creek itself, but I spent two days tramping over the hills, and work was going on just the same in all sections of the camp. It has been stated lately that there is a small amount of leasing being done, but I can testify to any amount of it.

"All of our properties are leased, and we attribute it to the fact that we have made it a point to go after the lessees and to not wait for them to come to us. There are plenty of lessees and all they need is a little encouragement. Mining companies should offer them greater inducements in the way of long leases, and give them time for prospecting, and a fair royalty rate. It will pay every time if this is done; and surely the lessees deserve it, for it is they who have developed the camp."

Mr. Rittenhouse said that there was a great deal of activity on the north slope of Bull hill, Ironclad, Beacon and Tenderfoot hills, and that several properties on Galena hill were again being actively worked. Not only are his hopes for the future bright, but he believes the present is more truly prosperous than it is given credit for being.

EL PASO SHIPPING RICH ORE

One Lot of 50 Tons Netted the Company $18,605--In August the Shipments Netted $52,868.86--Company Purchases Spratt Lease.

The El Paso mine has shipped some of the richest lots of ore which have come from Beacon hill in recent years. A consignment of 50 tons was sent out during August which was settled for at the rate of $[illegible] in gold to the ton and in September a similar amount was marketed which was worth $375 a ton, and which netted the company $18,605. It is expected that more of the valuable ore will go out this month, and the usual run of the production is averaging around $100 in gold to the ton.

Figures for the production of August have recently been made up and show that the company shipped 578 tons of ore, of which the gross value was $61,[illegible], and from which the company received $52,868.86, net. There are many consignments of ore marketed in September which have not yet been settled for, and it will be three or four weeks before the exact production will be known, but it is thought that the amount will be equal to that shipped in August.

As yet the El Paso mine has not begun to make a big production. It is the aim of the management to open the ore for a long distance, and from the 600-foot level, which has now been run north for a distance of 600 feet, only development ore will be taken out.

The company has just bought the Armpriester lease, formerly the Spratt lease, covering block 2 of the Kimberly. The shaft on this block is down to a depth of 400 feet, and an upraise is now being constructed for a connection. This will give excellent ventilation to the workings. After the connection is effected the company will probably make a much larger production.

TROUBLES OF KLONDIKE COMPANY

Will Be Submitted to Stockholders Meeting in Cripple Creek--Proposed to Incorporate a New Company.

The committee appointed by the Cripple Creek exchange to examine into the affairs of the Klondike, Cripple Creek and Galena company have issued another circular, stating that their call for a voluntary assessment of 25 cents per 1,000 shares met with only a partial response from stockholders, but that it was sufficient to have the title case brought to trial. The case was decided in favor of the company, but an appeal has been taken and may be granted. More funds will be required to meet further expenses, including the annual work on the company's claims. The committee advises that the suit pending for a one-third interest in the Dewey claim be compromised.

As the best way to straighten out the entire issue, the committee recommends that a new company be formed in Wyoming, with 1,500,000 shares, the property transferred to this after the title is quieted, and five shares of the new stock for three or possibly five of the old. It is thought that this will put the company in good financial condition. The committee suggests that a charge be made on all old stocks transferred for the new, and that considering some stockholders have shirked the assessment, those who have contributed will have the respective amounts deducted from the charge for transferring their stock.

To consider these matters a meeting is called for all stockholders to be held at 117 Bennett avenue, in Cripple Creek October 15, at 7:30 p. m.

SEPTEMBER DIVIDENDS $161,650

The showing of the dividend paying companies for the month of September was not a very favorable one. Elkton was the only company whose quarterly distribution fell due in the month, and the Doctor-Jack Pot and Isabella dividends were passed. It was rumored during the month that the Free Coinage company had declared a dividend of $120,000, but this has not yet been confirmed. The Gold Coin and Consolidated Mines companies are the standbys, making their regular monthly distributions, while the Elkton can always be counted on once a quarter for $[illegible], and it is believed that the dividend rate will be increased before another distribution is made. The list of amounts paid in September is as follows:

Consolidated Mines	$ 19,600
Elkton	75,000
Gold Coin	36,000
Granite	5,000
New Zealand	1,050
Strong	25,000
Total	$161,650
With the Free Coinage	120,000
Total	$281,650

OPINION ON TONAPAH DITSRICT

Special to the Gazette.

Victor, Sept. 30.—Reports from the Tonapah mining district in Nevada are [illegible]. Three hundred miners and prospectors and men with capital have left the Cripple Creek district for the new gold field and more are contemplating the trip. Elmer H. De Vore, who went to Tonapah recently to make an examination for the Miller-Young Brokerage Co., has advised Mr. Miller by wire to invest nothing in the new gold field and to advise friends to stay away. He said that the camp is vastly overrated and is no place for a poor man.

George E. Bacon, an old-time San Juan prospector, who has just returned to Victor from the new district, tells a different story. He states that the district offers considerable encouragement to the prospector, although Tonapah itself is now crowded with mining men who have recently flocked in, attracted by the reports of riches. The ore occurs in narrow blanket veins and is of such a grade that it pays well to haul it the long distance to the railroad [illegible] Mr. Bacon further said that the limits of the gold-bearing district have not been discovered and that the ore is being well opened in new surface workings for an area of several miles. The country is desert-like and living is high in that country.

The narrow veins are very rich and the ore [illegible] with depth. A large sum of money has been obtained from the veins at a depth varying from 50 to 100 feet. The ore averages from the surface workings as much as $500 in gold and silver.

One survey of the Salt Lake-Los Angeles railroad will take the line almost through this camp, and if the showing continues to be good connection will undoubtedly be made from this and the other lines passing within 50 or more miles of the camp.

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

The Miller-Young Brokerage company of Cripple Creek, yesterday received a communication from Mr. E. H. De Vore, who left a short time ago for the new Nevada district of Tonapah. His message was to the effect that the showing in the camp was not what it was reported to be, and that he advised his friends not to go out there. He had traveled back the 65 miles by stage from Tonapah to Sodaville, the terminus of the Oregon Short Line road in Nevada, and wired the message. Mr. De Vore's sentiments agree with those of others who have visited the district during the last 12 months, although their knowledge of developments is by no means so recent as that of those who have gone to the camp since the big discoveries have been made. It is stated that shrewd California mining men have gone in and taken up all the [illegible]. If there is anything there that is good, the Colorado Springs people will not be slow, but it is likely that they are entirely equal to Californian mining men and will not get any gold bricks while they are away.

HIGH-GRADE ORE OPENED IN ACACIA.

There has been much improvement in the various workings of the property of the Acacia. In the block of ground under lease to Owenby and McFarland, a large strike is reported to have been made. They are at work on the old Wrockloff shaft on the Burns claim. At the depth of 100 feet on a drift a shoot has been cut.

The assays taken from there on Saturday morning from various points on the three feet of quartz run as high as $500 in gold to the ton. The ore is beautiful in appearance, for it shows much rusty gold. In the same workings Lessee Fitch is at work and has been in ore for over a week. A shipment is being saved and will be sent out early this week. Some of the ore in this shipment will run very high. A part will go as high as $350 in gold to the ton.

RICH ORE SHOOT DISCOVERED IN AJAX.

The present outputting from the big Ajax mine on Battle mountain which is in the center of so many large producers is greater than it has ever been in the history of the mine. This company being a close corporation, little information is given out about the underground condition of the property.

It is given out that the developments have opened some very fine bodies of ore. The vein encountered in the 800-foot level is thought to be an extension of the famous Gold Coin vein.

Much surface improvement has been added during the present year and the company has been quietly buying additional territory.

SHIPMENT OF LOW-GRADE ORE FROM DOCTOR.

On Saturday a shipment of 150 tons of low grade smelting ore was shipped out by the Doctor-Jack Pot company. This shipment came from the old workings. While the work in the lower levels of the mine cannot be prosecuted on account of the water, the management is falling back on the reserves of low grade ore. The pumps have been ordered and are expected to be put in place this week. No time will be lost in putting the pumps in operation.

LESSEES ON PILGRIM HAVE A STRIKE.

Messrs. Mitchell and associates who have been working a lease on the property of the Pilgrim Consolidated company, have made a strike in a drift in the 100-foot level. The claim that they are at work on is known as the Maud Helena.

Ore is being saved for a shipment and the assay returns show from $30 to $40 in gold to the ton. The vein as far encountered is four feet wide and is holding out well under further development. The lessees intend now to send out regular shipments.

$40,000 CONSIDERATION FOR THE PROVIDENCE CLAIM.

Among the mining deeds filed for record in Cripple Creek on Saturday was one conveying to the South Gold Coin Mining company, the Providence claim, from the Amazon Mining company and Scott Ashton. The consideration named in the deed is $40,000. This property is situated at the south of the Gold Coin property. This ground has been actively worked for some time and is considered to be very valuable.

INDEPENDENCE'S NEW PLANT TO START OCTOBER 15.

Great progress is being made on the new plant of machinery on Stratton's Independence on Battle mountain. There is no question but that the manufacturers of the plant will have the plant in readiness to turn over to the company by October 15. The reason for such a great rush on the plant is that for every day after October 15 the contractors will have to pay a penalty of $250 a day for every day it is not completed. In the meantime the production from the mine is being maintained at the rate of 250 tons a day. The production for September will reach as high as 7,500 tons and the grade is running higher than heretofore.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Sept. 30.—The mining stock market today was the lightest which has been known in some weeks, the cash value of the trading having fallen as low as $20,000. The interest in the market seems to be at as low an ebb as it ever reaches, but there is a slight demand for shares, and very little inclination to sell, which resulted in the development of some strength during the two calls, even if the trading was so light. The dissemination of the discouraging news of the A. J. mine evidently brought some stock on the market, and the absence of any demand for the shares forced the price down from 11 to 9 cents a share. The capitalization of the company is rather high, and the present price would amount to something over 20 cents on the basis of $1,000,000 capitalization. C. C. Con. was in some demand at 5¾, owing to the good strike made on the property, and Coriolanus sold at 9½. Elkton fell off fractionally to $1.73½, but El Paso was very strong due to the splendid showing which the property is making. The stock sold as high as 62, but realization forced it back to 61½ at the close. Isabella was stronger, selling as high as 57, and closing two points lower, while Gold Dollar closed fairly firm at 15¾. Moon-Anchor sold up from 28 to 29 on board lot trades. Last Dollar was strong at 60 and Portland sold at $3.05. Sedan fell to 5¾, although it is not known what is the cause of this weakness.

EASTERN MARKETS

By Associated Press.

New York, Sept. 30.—The small volume of the trading today and the tendency of prices to retrace the earlier downward movement revealed the predominance of professional operations in the market. The dealings were less than half a million shares and the late hardening movement relieved approximately one-half of the early decline. There was no very urgent selling manifest at any period of the day although the bears succeeded in uncovering stop loss orders in Sugar and to a smaller extent in Brooklyn Transit and Missouri Pacific. The market closed firm.

Words of Warning

Should never be disregarded. They may come from a friend, your medical advisor, or they may be the silent indications given by nature that your health is impaired. It may be that your lungs are only troubled by a cough.

Lung Trouble

should be attended to as it may be at the stage where it can be permanently cured. In any case I can benefit you. I have made this disease my special study for years. If your lungs are gone I cannot replace them, but I will help you. It don't cost anything to know your condition.

Examination Is Free.

STORIES OF THE STREET

Colorado Springs People Are Talking About It on Every Corner.

It is sometimes an easy matter to fool the public, but you can't keep it up very long. They are sure to find you out; and every time a man is fooled another skeptic is made. Skepticism is allowable when reading in a home newspaper about some incident occurring in San Francisco or Iowa, but the circumstances are entirely different when it refers to someone right here at home, friends and neighbors, people you know, whom you can see and with whom you talk it over. This is the kind of evidence at the back of Doan's Kidney Pills—home statements, by home people and the astonishing local work they have been doing has caused more talk among our citizens than the doings of any other modern wonder. Read the following:

Mrs. H. C. Hughes, corner of Cascade and Vermijo streets, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills helped me amazingly and I know they are a reliable remedy for the kidneys. I caught a cold, which settled in the small of my back and in the kidneys and caused me so much pain I was quite miserable. Reading an advertisement in our paper about Doan's Kidney Pills, I sent my son to Jones & Wellington's drug store, 109 N. Tejon street, for a box. The treatment relieved me almost at once and up to date there has been no recurrence of the symptoms."

For sale by all dealers; price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Stock registered with the registry department, C. S. M. Stock association.

BONBRIGHT & CO.'S MARKET LETTER

September 27, 1901.

The week has not been a particularly interesting one, though several new finds are reported and the production of several of the Cripple Creek properties has been considerably increased. The Golden Cycle has resumed the hoisting of ore, the first cage of rock going up from that property yesterday. When the Cycle shaft-house was destroyed by fire on June 15, last, there were many thousands of tons of ore broken and ready for hoisting. Now the shaft-house and ore bins are nearly completed and in a few days the mine will be outputting about 200 tons per day of ore of good grade. Encouraging reports are coming from the Anchoria-Leland, Alamo and Moon-Anchor properties which bodes well for the future of Gold Hill. In the Conundrum claim of the Anchoria-Leland, a fine showing is reported at a depth of 500 feet. This claim lies contiguous to the Moon-Anchor, and a very valuable ore chute has been encountered which it is thought will restore Anchoria-Leland's former prestige. The Moon-Anchor shaft is being steadily sunk and the property is steadily improving, the stock meanwhile receiving its share of attention in the mines list. Lessees are taking out quite a nice lot of ore from the old stopes and levels from which the company is receiving 50 per cent. royalties. In the drift being run from the Ophelia tunnel to connect with the main working shaft of the Alamo company, a good find is reported. A body of ore three feet across which averages well is being prospected through a winze, and many fine samples of free gold and sylvanite have been taken out.

DELANY & DELANY'S MARKET LETTER

September 28, 1901.

El Paso is the feature of the market and will be of the mines in Cripple Creek. The hints we have given from time to time to investors to buy now, still holds good. These shares in eighteen months will be selling around one dollar and a half, sure, unless something unforeseen happens, but we predict nothing of the sort. Thousands of shares of this stock are being purchased by the insiders and their friends, which, in itself is a good indication. We recommend this stock, knowing fully its true worth.

Now is the time to load up on good prospect stocks, such as Ida May, Forepaugh, and others, while not particularly active, yet they have touched bottom and at present prices are absolutely a sure thing for good profits. Forepaugh is being worked steadily and the showing is fine. We give this after inspecting personally the workings and assays. The Kaffirs company is getting ready to work its ground thoroughly, and is about ready to close a deal for machinery. These companies surround the famous Santa Rita and all lie on the south and west slope of Squaw mountain, the district of all the big mines.

We recommend these stocks because they are in excellent shape, absolutely safe, and do not require a fortune to take a flyer. Generally speaking, the market is very quiet, and at times discouraging, but the district is all that can be desired, the amount of work being done will have its effect sooner or later, and any day may put one of the quiet prospect stocks into the mines list—who knows?

Most of the stocks for sale now are those floated at high prices, with never an opportunity to get out. It often pays to buy and get a low average.

GENERAL

GOOD FOR SOMETHING—Until recently it was thought that the pestiferous Russian thistle was not good for anything, but now it is being stacked and used for fodder for cattle. The sage brush, also, had the reputation of being good for nothing except to afford a hiding place for rabbits when chased by coyotes, but now comes a stockman from Texas who says the roots of the despised sage brush make excellent food for that much abused breed of hogs known as the razor-backs, and if the enterprising Texan can find a proper location in Colorado or Wyoming he will start a razor-back hog ranch. Possibly the saying is true that everything was created for some good purpose.—(Elbert County Tribune.

GREAT FRUIT EXHIBIT—It is not too much to assert that there has never [illegible] finer or larger display of fruit than that now on exhibition at the Pueblo [illegible] comprises specimens of all the fruits grown in the north temperate zone, and yet they are all produced by less than a dozen counties.

It is a wonderful exhibit, and description fails to do it justice. Respect for the capabilities of Colorado, appreciation of its greatness and the versatility of its marvelous resources increases as the visitor inspects and studies this beautiful collection.

There might have been larger quantities of peaches from the Grand River valley, but those on exhibition fully represent the choice and standard varieties which grow in that favored valley with the most ordinary care and produce their loads of fruit reliably.

Baca county's exhibit, from a county which has no rivers or creeks, is one of the unexpected novelties.

Apples and corn from the San Luis valley are also innovations that nobody ever heard of before. There are at least two varieties of apples that bear at that altitude, and the corn, while hard and flinty, is good enough for ordinary purposes.

There have been larger [illegible] apples [illegible] previous exhibits, both from Fremont county and Delta, but it is not bigness of fruit that counts.

The showing of grapes is not what it might be, and there should have been at least a ton from Canon City.

We will hope also next year to obtain more from Bent and Prowers counties than has [illegible] from that portion of the valley.

The contribution of [illegible] Pueblo flowers is superb.

But in both fruits and flowers, as well as the products of field and garden, Pueblo county makes a whole show by herself.—(Pueblo Chieftain.

BUFFALO FOUND IN SOUTH PARK—It is reported that a male buffalo which was supposed to have been killed three years ago, and which at the time was the only male buffalo in the state, has been found. Several [illegible] in the vicinity of Hartsell.

There are only two other buffaloes of the peculiar species indigenous to this state. They are two females now in Middle Park, and they are closely protected by the game wardens of the state. Since the male has been found the game wardens will endeavor to [illegible] him and take him to Middle Park with the others. In this way they hope to keep the species from becoming extinct.

As is known, the Colorado buffalo is a different animal from the ones found [illegible]. It is shorter and stockier and is a more formidable looking animal than the others. [illegible] three are of interest [illegible] taken in them and it is hoped that they may be preserved and may again multiply. The state has fixed a fine of $1,000 and five years in the penitentiary for killing one of them. —(Elbert County Tribune.

THE WOLF QUESTION—A hard winter such as is now promised us will drive the wolves out of the mountains [illegible] the fact that this wolf question is a rather serious matter. It did not count for much when cows were worth $5, with calves thrown in, but in these days of Shorthorns and [illegible] it takes many a dollar to fill up the depredation that even one lobo will make. In a herd of young cattle in a single night. These beasts go for blood, not for meat. It is no uncommon thing to find ten or a dozen calves with their throats cut by these ravenous brutes around a single water hole on a range.—(Field and Farm.

Probably no state in the union is more prosperous today than Colorado. Her increase in population for the past year has been phenomenal. Denver, Pueblo and Colorado Springs have been kept busy erecting all kinds of buildings, and even now, with winter at hand, cannot supply the demand. The increase in our farming population has been enormous and the end is not yet, in fact it is only the beginning.—(Fort Morgan Times.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Information Department, Gazette—Can you furnish for me the present address, if living, of a Mr. Breckinridge who accompanied Fremont on his expedition in 1848 and 1849, generally known as his starvation expedition? He was reported to be living in some part of the San Luis valley two or three years ago.—Yours truly, F. N. C.

No. [illegible] We are unable to supply the information desired. Possibly some of our readers may be able to do so.

Information Department, Gazette—What was the route of the Old Santa Fe Trail?—W. E. D.

No. [illegible] There were two trails from the Arkansas river to Santa Fe which were extensively used before the days of the railroad. In 1825 a survey was made by the United States government which was known as the Brown survey. It crossed the Arkansas river near what was known as Choteau's Island, and then led up the Cimarron river and over the mountains to the valley of the Rio Grande. The trail as surveyed by the Brown party was never actually in use. The crossing preferred by the wagon trains being what was known as the Aubrey crossing, about 12 miles from Choteau's Island. The upper or later Santa Fe trail crossed the river above Bent's fort, near the present site of La Junta, [illegible] along Timpas creek between that and the Las Animas, and east of and not far from the present line of the Santa Fe railroad. Two of the well known localities along this trail were called Hole in the Rock and Hole in the Prairie. It crossed the mountains at Raton pass where the pioneer Dick Wootton established a house and toll road.

BOULDER

DAMAGE TO FORESTS—The damage to the forests at the headwaters of Boulder creek, above Eldora, is not the only one to be considered. Of even more vital importance is the protection which these forests furnished to the snow. Where the trees stood the sun could not have so great and so sudden effect upon banks of snow as where the country was denuded [illegible] trees caused the melting of the snow to be gradual. This did two things; it caused a gradual flow of water during the summer months, and it kept the soil from washing the soil off the rocks. With the trees gone, the snow fall will be just as heavy, but the snow will melt more rapidly, come down in the spring of the year, wash away the soil from the mountain sides, cause high water in the spring and scarcity of water when most needed in the summer. Washing away the soil will prevent trees from starting up again, [illegible] from the effects of treeless mountains, and [illegible] in the garb of careless persons, are placing Colorado in the [illegible] predicament.—(Boulder Herald.

OIL WELLS—The various oil companies are rapidly getting all the desirable land in the oil belt. Yesterday Coroner Trezise received the second installment of $[illegible] on his property east of town, which he sold some time ago for $22,000. Papers have been filed with the oil company has secured an option on two tracts of land east of town. One is known as the Clyde ranch and was sold by W. H. Arnold and Annie Arnold for $12,000. The first payment is to be made Saturday and the last within sixty days, according to the terms of the contract. Mr. Pare has also secured rights from F. M. and Mary Rogers on the west half of the [illegible] quarter of section 11, township 1 north, of range 70 west, the consideration being $1,000. Two new wells will be sunk at once near Ni Wot in the search for oil. The contract was let yesterday by the Consolidated Oil company to T. H. Stearns and John S. Charlton of Denver. These gentlemen will proceed to begin at once.—(Daily Camera.

PUMPKIN PIE DAY—At the pumpkin pie day in Longmont next week, [illegible] Among other things there will be an automobile race of five miles. There will be races each day.—(Boulder Herald.

SUGAR FACTORY—The American Beet Sugar company will build a sugar factory at Longmont in time to handle the crop to be raised next summer. Henry Oxnard, president of the company, and Hayard Cutting, chairman of the board of directors, visited Longmont yesterday, stopping in Denver going and returning. In the evening they left for Rocky Ford in their special car attached to the Santa Fe train leaving at [illegible] o'clock.

"As a result of our visit to Longmont today," said Mr. Cutting, "we have decided to build a factory at Longmont, if certain conditions are complied with, and I hope they will be. The matter is not definitely determined, however. We shall ask nothing of the Longmont people but a guarantee of sufficient acreage of beets. We have sought no bonus and will buy what land we need for the factory. [illegible] at present for the cultivation of beets on [illegible] with [illegible] from the farmers."—(Boulder Herald.

CONEJOS

INDEPENDENT ELEVATOR — It would pay the farmers and grain raisers in this vicinity to organize an independent elevator company and put their grain into it. It would pay them big money on the investment and would insure them the top prices for grain. Think it over and organize.—(La Jara Chronicle.

ELBERT

[illegible] Waldo began digging his potatoes Monday, but found that the crop [illegible] postponed further operations until next week. Mr. Waldo's potatoes are mostly of the white Delaware variety, and if the one he left at this office yesterday is a fair sample of his entire crop he certainly has something to be proud of in the spud line.—(Elbert Tribune.

NEW RESIDENTS—Frank Hall of Sigourney, Iowa, has bought a quarter section of land near Fondis from L. C. [illegible] and will try farming in Colorado. The people of the Fondis neighborhood will find Mr. and Mrs. Hall good citizens.—(Elbert Tribune.

COWBOYS—A band of cowboys from southeastern Colorado ranges passed through town yesterday with a herd of range horses. They were a typical gang of broncho busters and gave an exhibition of rough riding that was better than Buffalo Bill's show.—(Elbert [illegible] putting some repairs on the [illegible]. About the first of December they will close down for the season and put in the winter overhauling and remodeling the plant. A new 15-ton engine will be added, new coils all around and a 50-foot tank and a brine storage room built. About $5,000 will be expended, making it a thoroughly up-to-date plant in every respect, and capable of turning out 40 tons of ice every working day or about 20 in double shifts.—(Florence Refiner.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES—The Colorado Fuel and Iron company has made a commendable move in installing public libraries at its various coal camps. One has been instituted at Rockvale, with 200 volumes as a starter, and is intended for the use of the miners.—(Canon City Record.

POTATO HARVEST—The farmers in the Wetmore, Wet Mountain and other districts are engaged in harvesting their immense crops. The potato yield in the Wet Mountain valley is enormous and some of them have already been placed on the market. The harvesting season will be over in about thirty days.—(Florence Tribune.

HUERFANO

MANY BRICK.—Contractor J. B. Gittings has bought the brick making plant of Thomas Mooney, and is now engaged in the manufacture of 150,000 bricks. They will be ready for market in a couple of weeks and there will be no necessity for Walsenburg builders going out of town for brick hereafter.—(Walsenburg Yucca.

FIRE TEAM ORGANIZED.—At a meeting called for at the court house Tuesday evening a fire team was organized for the protection of Walsenburg property. Harry Setter was elected chief and will make his appointments to the various positions on the team later. This is a good move. We have long had the paraphernalia for a fire brigade but have lacked the necessary organization. With a good volunteer team trained to be on the spot at the first alarm and each knowing just what part of the work before them is expected of him, Walsenburg property will be much safer from the danger of fire. Mr. Fetter deserves great credit that he has been instrumental in organizing this team.—(Walsenburg World.

LA PLATA

INSTALL ELKS.—Durango Lodge of Elks will go to Silverton on October [illegible] on a special train to initiate something like thirty applicants into the [illegible] (Durango Democrat.

FOR GOOD ROADS.—Teams entering Durango from the south just at present have to cross from west to east side of river at Animas City or at Graden's mill, as the bridge on main avenue has been torn up to enable repairs to proceed without disturbing the peace and dignity of the street commissioner.—(Durango Democrat.

LARIMER

BIG HONEY SHIPMENTS—The production of honey in Loveland this year will reach 50,000 pounds. Of this R. C. Aikin will have between 20,000 and 40,000 pounds. Last Saturday Mr. Aikin and W. L. Hayley of Fort Collins shipped a carload of honey to Salina, Kas., and next week will ship a carload, which is equivalent to about 20,000 pounds, to St. Louis. This honey will be from Timnath and Loveland.—(Loveland Register.

STRENGTHENS BANK—T. H. Wilson has associated himself with Thomas & Sullivan in the Bank of Eaton, and that institution is strengthened by additional capital. Mr. Wilson is so well and favorably known throughout the Eaton country that his connection with the bank is sure to enlarge the list of patrons of the institution. The Bank of Eaton already had a large business but will now have considerable more. John Wilson is employed as bookkeeper in the bank.—(Eaton Herald.

PROWERS

FAIR WAS A SUCCESS—The first fair of the Prowers County Fair association is now a thing of the past, and it is safe to say that its success has far surpassed the hopes of its most enthusiastic promoters. There has never been a fair in the state which [illegible] off its first year with such a brilliant record. There were a number of causes which made this possible. In the first place, as one farmer told us, Nature did a large part of the work in giving us the most beautiful fair grounds in the state, already made, better than we could possibly have ordered it. In the second place there was the assistance of the many farmers, who have been begging the town people to take hold of this enterprise for a number of years, and were all happy that it was at last an assured fact, and then above all else was the systematic and thorough manner in which the promoters and officers of the association did the arduous work which was entrusted to them. All are deserving of the greatest praise.—(Lamar Register.

ALFALFA MAKES MONEY—S. Woodard was one of the few farmers [illegible] loupe and sugar beet estimates look like thirty cents with a hole in it. Alfalfa is no longer the only crop of the Arkansas valley, but it is still the greatest source of revenue of our farmers.—(Lamar Register.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION—The first meeting of the Prowers County Teachers' association was held in Lamar September 21, 1901. A fair number of teachers from different parts of the county were present. Meeting was called to order by the temporary chairman, Miss Lou M. Baxter. Miss Mabie Graham was chosen temporary secretary. On motion it was decided to reorganize as a county association with two meetings at each of the following places during the year: Lamar, Granada and Holly. Officers elected were: President, Prof. George R. Momyer; one vice president from each of the following places—Lamar, Prof. E. R. Jones; Granada, Prof. J. A. Roseborough; Holly, Miss M. Adelle Billings; treasurer and collector of fines for [illegible] at association meetings, the county superintendent.—(Lamar Register.

SAGAUCHE

STATE WELL ABANDONED—H. O. Miller, who has been in Saguache for the past nine months sinking the state artesian well, leaves today for his home at Eaton, Colo. The well is now down 1,045 feet and as yet no flow of water has been encountered. A short time ago Mr. Miller encountered a layer of sand which gave him a great deal of trouble. The original contract called for 1,100 feet, but the contract provided that whenever it became apparent that the contractor could not go any deeper the contract was at an end. Mr. Miller stated he was unable to proceed further and the board of construction declared the work ended. The fact that sand was encountered, after passing through so many hundred feet of solid formation, is by many taken as an indication that the well was nearing the point where water would have been encountered. It is altogether likely that arrangements will be made to sink the well still deeper in the near future.—(Saguache Crescent.

Every subscriber of the Gazette will be entitled to guess at the dots whose subscription is paid in full to date and who pays one month in advance.

Every subscriber is entitled to one guess for every 60c paid either on back subscription or on advance subscription, provided one month's payment is made in advance.

You can guess as many times as you wish. The more guesses you turn in the better chance of your winning. The subscription price of The Gazette is 60c per month; $1.75 for three months; $3.50 for six months, and $7.00 for a year.

No guess will be recorded unless accompanied by the cash.

In case a person guessing wishes he can have The Gazette sent to a friend as a gift to any postoffice in the country, [illegible] the sender to one guess.

Boys and Girls getting 60c for one month's subscription from friends will be entitled to one guess for each 60c order sent in this way.

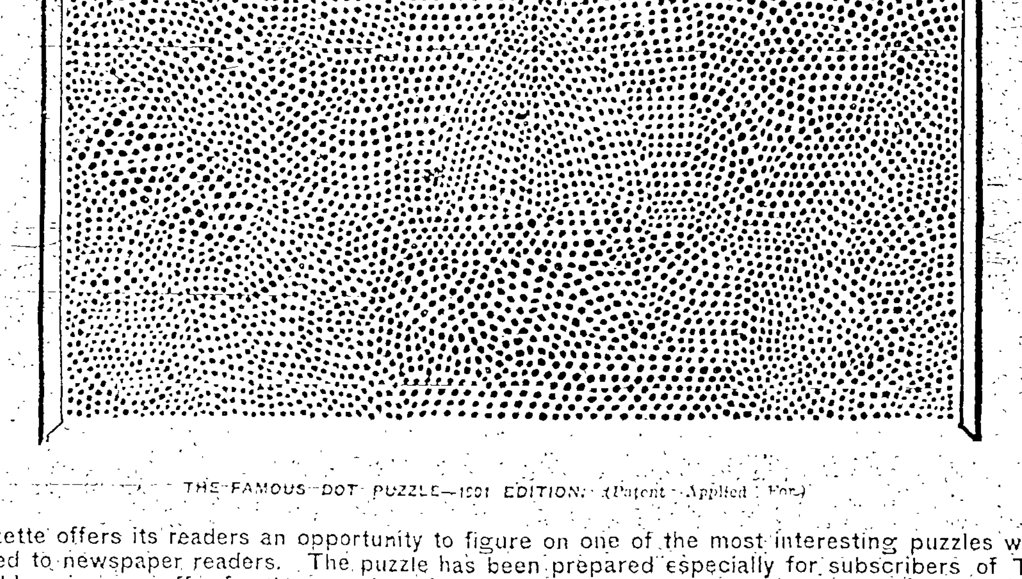

All payments and guesses must be made to The Gazette office direct, either personally or by mail unless you are taking The Gazette from an authorized agent outside of Colorado Springs, in which case send your guess and remittance either to the Gazette office or your local agent.

The result will be published in The Gazette within one week after the close of the contest with the names of the lucky guessers. No guesses will be received except from persons who have subscribed for the Gazette—from old subscribers who have paid arrearages up to date and one month in advance or other subscribers who pay in advance.

Pay a three-months subscription and get 3 guesses, a six months subscription and get 6 guesses, a Twelve-months subscription and get 12 guesses.

$50.00 FOR GUESSING THE CORRECT NUMBER.

Special Notice to Out-of-Town Subscribers.

In order to give the out of town subscribers equal chance with subscribers in Colorado Springs the post mark showing time of mailing will be used to indicate time guess is filed.

Fill out the Annexed Blank, write figures and words plainly so there can be no mistake.

THE CONTEST CLOSES EXACTLY AT 10 O'CLOCK P. M., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5th, 1901.

All subscriptions sent by mail must bear postmark prior to the above time.

TRY YOUR SKILL AT COUNTING

There is no trick about the puzzle. It is simply a matter of counting the Dots. It is absolutely a test of skill and ingenuity.

Address all Remittances and Guesses to the PUZZLE DEPARTMENT, COLORADO SPRINGS GAZETTE, Colorado Springs, Colo.

TO CONTESTANTS: The Gazette upon receipt of Ten Cents will send at the close of the contest a diagram or key of the above puzzle so constructed as to prove the correct answer to the satisfaction of all contestants.

Pressing Their Claims....

Not a section of this store but strongly presses its claims to be emphasized in print.

To tell you of all the good things of the new season in the prescribed limits of our advertising space is impossible. Can only give you a hint of, a few from time to time.

A Dress Goods Showing

That Any Store might be proud of awaits your inspection—by far the largest assortment we have ever shown.

Tailored Suits.
Separate Skirts.
Walking Skirts.

Whatever of style and dressmakers' perfection there is in this season's product, a fine representation of that style and perfection may be seen here.

At $15.00

Win Strength

It's an easy task if you go the right way about it. No necessity to adopt the slow process of eating meats, but take the noted strength builder.

MALT-NUTRINE

Everyone knows its splendid qualities. We sell lots of it. Give it a trial and you will feel more vigorous from the time you take the first bottle.

AFTER DEVELOPEMENT

The pictures should be carefully mounted, either on card mounts or in an album. In this way only can they be appreciated and enjoyed by yourself and your friends. Left lying around they soon become frayed. Our line of Photo Albums and Card Mounts is large, and we have many pretty patterns in both. Prices are also right.

A Fortunate Silk Happening

In the market centers our buyer is considered one of the most aggressive that haunt the wholesale district—always in line with the latest happenings. By chance he heard of a valuable line of silks—he hastened to the scene and amid the mad rush of his opponents, snapped up the lot and had them speeding across the continent almost before the baffled competitors realized it. Hence this economizing silk movement.

89c yd. To convey a fair impression of the variety, the novelty, the richness, the beauty of the assortment, words are inadequate you simply must see. Every yard is worth from $1.00 up to $1.75—They were bought at a price and our good fortune is yours always. WILL YOU SHARE IT? 89c yd.

PROFITABLE DRESS GOODS NEWS.

Along with the silk sale we will run three very interesting dress goods specials. Among these patterns may be the very one that appeals to you. If so the advantage of purchasing now is clearly apparent. By so doing you save a good margin and receive staple goods that on the threshold of a new season are much in demand.

60c all wool camel hair, at...40c yard
75c, 85c and 90c Jamestown mixed Suitings at.....50c yard
$1.25, $1.50 and $1.75 36 inch all wool Homespuns at.....$1.20 yard

A few minutes spent among our new dress fabrics will prove a revelation and a pleasure. Come and learn what is to be proper this fall.

"VOGUE"

As seen in our Ready-to-Wear Section.

The variety of American foreign tailoring seen in this department is truely confusing. It is really wonderful to what degree of excellence ready-to-wear garments have attained. Compare such as ours with the made-to-order costume, their superiority in novel styles is clearly evident while the workmanship bears the same painstaking stamp seen on the custom made garment.

Special pride is taken in mentioning our Jacket stock.

A 27-inch all wool Jacket in red, tan, blue and black, nicely finished and well lined at.....$8.00

A very fine Kersey Jacket, satin lined and excellent value at...$11.00

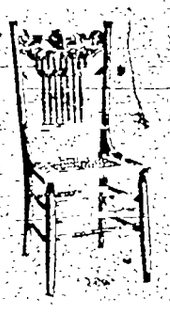

Carpets and Draperies

The magnitude of our fall stock is indescribable. Our thoughts imprisoned by their magnitude find no way out and in their struggle for expression, every finger tries to be a tongue. The different stocks are full of novelties and in a more varied form than ever. When in need of shade work call on us, inspect the line and get our prices. Wilton rugs with Bagdad effects unequaled for ware. They come in all sizes 36 in., 54 in., 8-3x10-6, 9x12, 10-6x13-6. All prices.

All wool ingrain carpets, made, laid and lined at 75c yard.
